Thank you for your interest in Branching Out!

Branching Out is an elective that allows you to study almost anything. You'll work with a mentor in the community, and design your own study. You need to be interested in working independently, and meetings with mentors are often outside of school and off campus. To be sure that it's the right fit for you, I'll contact you to set up an interview, so you can learn more about the program, and I can learn more about you.

Why are you interested in Branching Out?

What would you like to study?

How did you hear about Branching Out?

Have you talked to your parents or guardians about your interest in this program? It might involve some mentor time that is outside of the normal school day.
