Who are the subterranean inhabitants at Dulce, New Mexico USA and what extraterrestrial or human groups have been associated with them?

- First were the Progenitors; aliens from Sirius who came to the Solar system long ago.
- Second were the Anu (Anunna) – possibly the same as the Anunnaki from Ancient Sumer – genetically enhanced offspring of the Progenitors.
- Third are the Austra Albus, the offspring of the genetically modified Anu, and
- Fourth are the Eloah, created by the Progenitors and modified by the Anu, but not genetically related to the human lineages from Sirius.

Two groups now remain:

- The 'Elo-ah' – the Greys now beneath Dulce, New Mexico and
- 'Alien-Human Hybrids' on the surface (i.e., modern humans who have been genetically modified.)

(Note: Most surviving humans on the planet have been genetically modified.)

The first historical reference was to a group of beings representing a creator class, simply called the 'Progenitors', a powerfully advanced group of distant celestial origin. They were often referred to by the others as simply Gods, Creators or the Progenitors.

The origins of the Progenitors begins in Zeta Reticuli. They left en masse for the Sirius system, and occupied two planets for millions of years before colonizing our Solar system. They settled on Mars and thrived for 100,000 years. Then a catastrophic event occurred, and they had to abandon Mars for Earth.

However, they found the environment of Earth hostile, so to continue their lineage they created the Anu – genetically enhanced offspring who could live in the Earth environment. They also created a servant cast for the Anu, called the Eloah. These are your typical 'Greys'.

They were also called the Achromatic and Formicidae – for their behavioral traits, socialization, and the protectorate nature programmed into their genome by the Progenitors. To an extent their species represents a genetic integration of alien-animal and alien-insect DNA. One reason the Eloah were created was to oversee the (then primitive) indigenous Earth humans.

The Anu, however, eventually became afflicted with a weakness in their immune system – it could not adapt to the harsh ever-changing environment of Earth. To survive, they created a better genetically enhanced successor group called the Austra Albus. This new group was also called Illumina, Light

Bringers*, and the Immaculate Ones. Albus means 'light' or 'white'. Most of the remaining Anu then left the Earth.

The Greys were also genetically enhanced by the Progenitors when the Austra Albus were created. The Eloah were redesigned as a genetic sub-species of Progenitor home-world life forms with selected predetermined traits extracted from alien life forms. No Progenitor DNA was incorporated, for the sub-species was only intended to link to advanced alien technology and the protectorate relationship the Progenitors had of protection and partial control of the indigenous humans. Thus, the Austra Albus would still be able to deploy their advanced off-world technology, but would not have to deal directly with the primitive peoples of the Earth.

But the Austra Albus also became sick. To survive, they had to interbreed with the indigenous human population. Only in this manner could their quest to live on Earth be realized. But their lineage was no longer pure, which has produced a devastating affect to their psyche.

This information was learned from the ancient writings of the subterranean Eloah found at Dulce, and directly from the surviving 'Dissident Greys'.
