

From The Basement #243
Last Gasp Of January

New Model Army, the band Justin Sullivan has fronted since the year I got married, has never let me down. So many songs have hit me dead center, none more than "Family" from '89's "Thunder And Consolation." Friday the band's 17th album arrived and he's done it again. It keeps company with the brilliant new offering from John Leventhal. Coincidentally both artists are 5 years from their last releases but it's no surprise that each was worth the wait. Other new things include Marcus King's soulful new single, Joe Bonamassa hooking up with Peter Frampton and outstanding vault releases from Jim Capaldi, Johnnie Taylor and The Long Ryders. Welcome to another week and thanks for listening.
