Hey Jake,

Recently, I came across your website and I love that you are doing a great job of improving the lives of your clients by educating them on what actually a healthy mindset is.

You provide excellent value by coaching them and showing them the way toward a healthy and disciplined life through your experiences and expertise.

Your clients must have loved the efforts you are putting into your work because you helped them to get out of their milquetoast behavior and to embrace their real personalities.

And I'm pretty sure that you want to expand your reach and would love to help more people with your craftsmanship and have a powerful impact on your audience.

As a strategic marketing specialist, I can help you to enhance your reach and have a closer relationship with your clients which will help you to grab their interest firmly.

Here, I have made up a Simple Plan for you (free of charge). That includes a welcome sequence for your newsletter of 2-3 emails.

Using the approach I forged for you, you will have more influence on your clients and they will feel much more relatable to you.

Let's schedule a call to discuss your challenges/plans regarding your work, how my services will help your Brand Grow, and how we will help more people through your lifestyle transformation strategy.

Looking forward to hearing from you.
