Current Vault 2 Summary

Hello Heroes of old and new! Welcome to the Fellow Ship.

Our friend Dampé needs our help. His ship was attacked and crashed into the surface of Io, Jupiter's fourth-largest moon. We need to land and investigate, but the moon is enveloped by a force shield created by our nemesis Doc. Doc is attempting to rig the election for Galactic Mayor by getting 100,000,000 votes. The number of votes is tied to lowering the shield.

Clue: DocLetter 002 [Solved]

Context: On Nov. 30, 2018, Doc sent out the following transmission:

Holiday Howdy Campaign Heroes!

Chapter 1 of this election is over. Time for Chapter 2.

While you all sit around your fireplaces and celebrate, I'm out here working. Doing doctor work. Working like you should be to get me votes. Now I've got about 27 million, which is better than 0.

But you know how many millions that isn't? Forty. Tssh!b!

Nor is it 50 million. Nor 60 million. I need 100 million. Do the math.

That's a lot more millions -seventy three. Qqobgi!

I wish I could meet you all in person. Instead, use some new campaign materials to help.

You can find them at my new cool offices: <https://www.votefordoc.com/offices/>

~Doc~

P.S. I took an hour at 3 pm to review that game Friday the 14th.

Clue: Packages from Dampe [Solved]

Context: On Dec. 03, 2018, ru, Ricimon, and Rg4liff received packages in the mail.

Solution: All three packages were “Forwarded from Eletrion”. Inside was a Wanted Poster with writing (in what looked like Dampe’s handwriting) and a thumb drive which contained an MP3. The MP3s were decoded with an SSTV decoder.

Side note: FURY found reference to Eletrion in the old Vault 1 Manual for StarCraft:

CHRONICLE

- RAYNOR’S WAGER

The alliance of James Raynor, Judicator Aldaris, Praetor Fenix, and the Dark Templar Zeratul stands on the edge of a blade. Their resources are dangerously low. But one day while exploring the wreckage of the ravaged Protoss homeworld of Aiur, Raynor’s Raiders discover a ruined temple. Inside is an artifact that details a secret Protoss Vault on the nearby moon of Eletrion. Believing that this Vault may hold keys to their salvation, the group secretly sets out with intent to clear the moon of its Zerg infestation and unlock the Vault without being discovered by Arcturus Mengsk.

Ru received these: front, back, and 1.mp3. Decoded SSTV image. It was manipulated from this image from the Apollo 11 moon landing.

Ricimon received these: front, back, and 2.mp3. Decoded SSTV image. It was manipulated from this image from the Apollo 11 moon landing.

Rg4liff received these: front, back, and 3.mp3. Decoded SSTV image. It was manipulated from this image from the film “First Man” about the Apollo 11 moon landing.

The 3 decoded SSTV images gave us the numbers:

37.7

23, -12

07256

A hint was briefly available in !000 on 12/5 and it said:

| \ | 3 \ \ / | = | 4 [| < / o \ \ / 3 | ^ 3 |]

Which translates to NEW HACK POWERED. This directed the Heroes to look for a hack and not a URL using the 3 numbers from the SSTV images.

Thus, the new hack (unrelated to Terminal100) was found by taking all the numbers from the images:

!hack377231207256

[LANTERN] responded with:

Hero confirmed...
Decrypting LOST files...
37.7.m4a unlocked!
23, -12.m4a unlocked!
07256.m4a unlocked!

(We also learned that !hackhackhackhackhack is a base protocol to check functionality.)

[LANTERN] responded with:

Yes @[Hero's name]. Hack.

Using the clue from Dampe Webmaster (the numbers at the bottom of his letters were 1057. LOST in leetspeak.) and the new filenames from the hack, the Heroes found the correct URLs:

<https://www.votefordoc.com/1057/37.7.m4a>

<https://www.votefordoc.com/1057/23.-12.m4a>

<https://www.votefordoc.com/1057/07256.m4a>

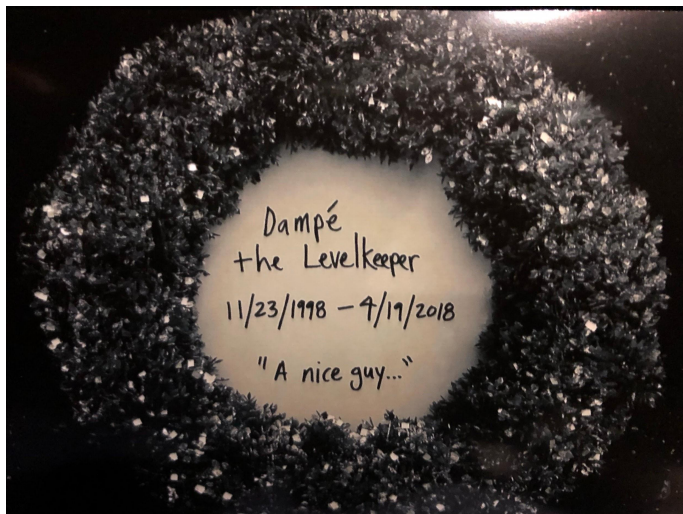

Using the SSTV decoder again, the Heroes finally found the full versions of the images with all the numbers:

37.7895

23, -122.4

07256

This finally translates to proper coordinates (37.789523, -122.407256), which was a CVS that has a 24 hour photo printing center. <https://goo.gl/maps/KjzAV29hWmk> @The Brit drove there. They had this photo printed for Dampe Webmaster:

11/23/1998 was Ocarina of Time release date. Was 4/19/2018 the date he died in Vault 1.

Clue: Dampe's Drives [Solved]

Context: After decoding a few SSTV images, the Heroes finally found the correct coordinates that led to a CVS photo print center, where they found a picture of Dampe the Levelkeeper's wreath.

Status: SOLVED

Solution: Using Dampe's birth and death dates as URLs, the Heroes found:

<https://votefordoc.com/11/23/1998/>

You've found my second lost drive. Use it wisely. Doc knows something odd is going on. Please help #savedampe.

Thank you Heroes. Now get lost at 45.

-Dampe Webmaster

<https://votefordoc.com/4/19/2018/>

You've found my first lost drive. Use it wisely. Doc knows something odd is going on. Please help #savedampe.

Thank you Heroes. Now get lost at 30.

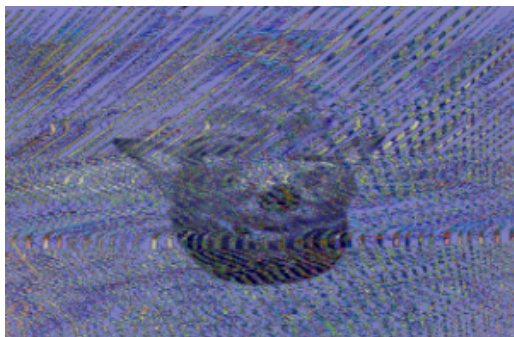

-Dampe Webmaster

On Dec 07, 2018 at 9:00PM EST, @The Big Yeet Toast found that the numbers on the URLs changed into a visitor counter like the Terminals. We assumed that we either needed 30 and 45 people on the website at once. When we hit 30, the message from <https://votefordoc.com/drivesforheroes.json> popped saying "Drive powered!".

Heroes noticed that any incorrect Vote for Doc urls opens to a webpage that said:

Clue: 1057_DRIVE_1 [Solved]

Context: @The Brit found <https://votefordoc.com/4/19/2018/1057/> since “1057” (or LOST) were the numbers from Dampe Webmaster letters. Everyday a link (labeled 1, 0, 5, 7) was updated to the website, providing various puzzles and clues.

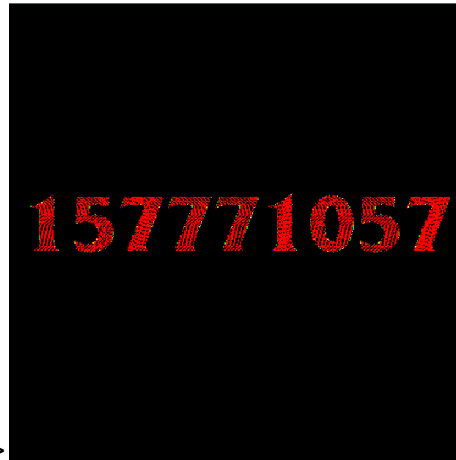

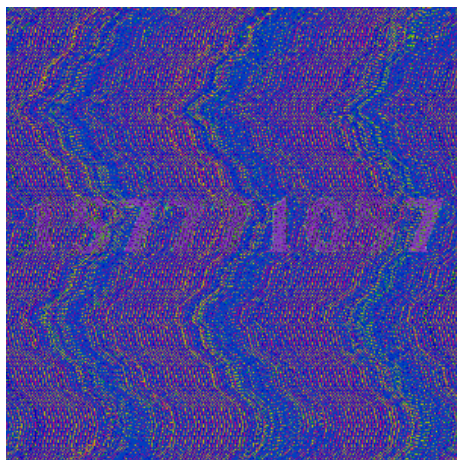

Status: SOLVED

Solutions: As a summary... The 1 link provided a GIF with a hidden hack. The 0 link provided a maze with a Path that contained a message in order to help link 5’s puzzle. The 5 link provided a spiral image that translated to two Ascii numbers. And the 7 link provided a message that pointed to the secret meetup’s password.

1 - GIF - 1.gif [Solved]

<https://votefordoc.com/4/19/2018/1057/1.gif>

@jb found that when you run that GIF through Image Steganography on “Hidden bits: 2” (<https://incoherency.co.uk/image-steganography/#unhide>), these hidden numbers show up:

--which is --> (@imatv)

The numbers 157771057 were used for the new hack command.

!hack157771057

[LANTERN] responded with:

5,000,000 votes added [one-time-use]!

0 - MAZE - 1057444231.pdf [Solved]

@Xavifr then discovered <https://votefordoc.com/4/19/2018/1057/> had updated with a link 0 which led to this PDF: <https://www.votefordoc.com/4/19/2018/1057/1057444231.pdf>

The numbers 1057444231 were used for the new hack command.

!hack1057444231
[LANTERN] responded with:
5,000,000 votes added [one-time-use]!

The PDF was another stacked maze. @aleina1313 provided the solution:

The path of the maze read:

It's a pretty typical lost lost summer at Planet Earth. There's a group lost of happy Heroes staying on lost the Ship. You and your lost six Celestial Legend friends lost are lost watching over the Heroes while enjoying the galaxy lost and the stars. The days are bright lost and sunny. The lost nights are cool and clear. And Doc is on lost a rampage. It's up to you to stop him, lost lost but it's not going to be easy. You lost must first fight your way through lost forests lost filled with man-eating aliens, caves covered with blood sucking cats and hordes of mindless computers everywhere you turn.

There were 16 “lost”s scattered throughout the message. In word groupings, they are in a 21111111112111 pattern. In sentence groupings, they are in a 22411123 pattern

At the time the maze was solved, there were actually 12 Celestial Legends. If the “You and your six Celestial Legend friends” refers to 6 heroes, this was written after Nov 16, 2018 but before Nov 24, 2018. If it refers to 7 heroes, it was written after Nov 24, 2018 but before Nov 25, 2018

5 - SPIRAL - 5.png [Solved]

Discoveries made (and written here!) by @Ricimon:

A day later a new link got added which leads to <https://votefordoc.com/4/19/2018/1057/5.png>

This is the program used to generate this image: <https://www.festisite.com/text-layout/spiral/> (Helvetica font). By trial-and-error, it was found that there’s 5,000 characters, so 1,250 “1057” strings were pasted to give almost the same image (the generator is actually only able to support a maximum of 5,000 characters).

Overlaying the generated image with the original image gave this:

Examining the differences, there’s extra ‘0’ and ‘1’ characters thrown into the 1057 repetitions. The extra characters are marked in the right image above.

The sequence of these extra characters are 0011000100110011

This translates in ASCII to: 13

There are 1,061 instances of 1057 prior to the first binary in each spiral.

Taking into account that there were 4 words before the first “lostlost” in the maze's path, there are 1,057 instances.

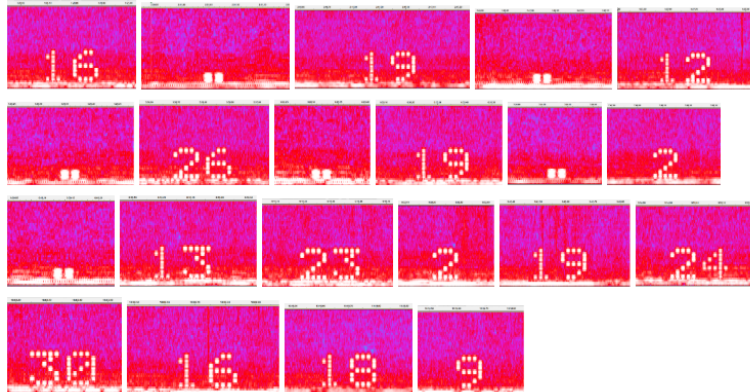

The grouping of these extra characters also follow the same grouping as the “lost” words from the PDF maze solution. The number of “1057”s between each extra character is also the same number of words between each “lost” word.

7 - AUDIO - -1057.m4a [Solved]

Not sure when this link was added as it was black text on black background

<https://votefordoc.com/4/19/2018/1057/-1057.m4a>

When @Ricimon ran the audio through a Spectrum Analyzer, he received images of these numbers:

The numbers were:

16.19.12.26.19.2. 13 23 2 19 24 30 16 18 9

Using the recently acquired #economic_systems to buy a “Monitor Decryption Index” (Single-use tool for decrypting most Forerunner ciphers.) for 1,000 GalactiCred, ru gained the !decrypt command. [LANTERN] responded with:

Scanning for ciphers...
Serial subtraction cipher found!
Determining value...
-1057!
Program terminated.

Using the clue “Serial subtraction” @The Jurgenator and @jb stumbled upon the technique of subtracting the individual numbers of 1057 (-1, -0, -5, -7) with the numbers found in the spectrogram.

16.19.12.26.19.2. 13 23 2 19 24 30 16 18 9
-1 -0 -5 -7 -1 -0 -5 -7 -1 -0 -5 -7 -1 -0 -5
15.19. 7.19.18.2. 8 16 1 19 19 23 15 18 4

Clue: 1057_DRIVE_2 [Solved]

Context: On Dec 08, 2018 when we hit 45, @jb found <https://www.votefordoc.com/11/23/1998/1057/> since “1057” (or LOST) were the numbers from Dampe Webmaster letters. Everyday a link (labeled 1, 0, 5, 7) was updated to the website, providing various puzzles and clues.

Solution by @pumaconrad:

<https://drive.google.com/open?id=1XU5iPVoKASuUGAOCLCEeCaiQ5uoI9KKt>

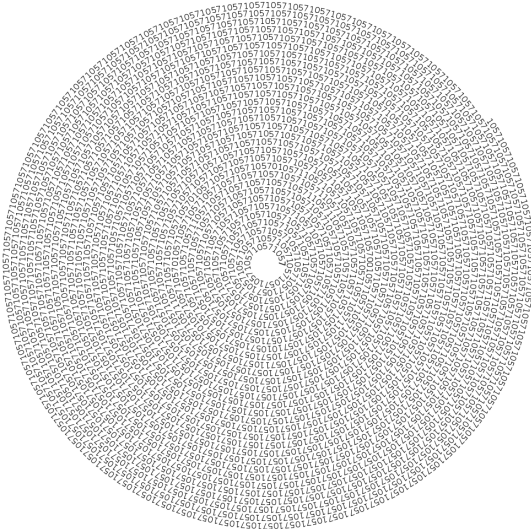

The path of the maze read:

You must also help any hero who is in danger, or else you can just kiss them goodbye. And hiding in a ship or staying adrift in space won't keep you safe - Doc will find you anywhere. The only way to survive this winter is to challenge Doc face to face, and destroy him. The object of the game is simple, you must stay alive long enough to find a way to defeat Doc once and for all. To do this requires nerves of steel as you explore the galaxy, encountering its many hidden dangers, and searching for the weapons and other items you will need to accomplish your fearful task. "Friday the 14th" meet up is three o'clock.

TSSHIB QQOBGI

These were the strange words used in the transmission from Doc. Also, the numbers 40 and 73 were spelled out in the message.

@LittleBee found out that these numbers are coordinates to the meetup described in the LOSTMAZE2 path.

Clue: 1057 Overlays [Solved]

Context: Dampe's Lost Drives pointed the Heroes to the FedEx locations at 30 and 45. Turns out there were prints that looked like book overlays. With the new clue from the Friday 14th meetup, we know which edition of the Ready Player One book these overlays correspond to. Grille cipher.

Page 45: obvious idea Swordquest man Aech bell were you

Using Clue: Adventures Lost in Space Part 1 and Clue: Adventures Lost in Space Part 2:

Take the number of words into the page each of these is (counting only spaces and ignoring --), you get:

Clue: ILOVEBEEZ

Context: We found Doc's side-project website about his love of bees. No wonder there were so many tweets with bee puns...

Status: UNSOLVED

Comments: His ILOVEBEEZ site (<https://ilovebeez.com/>) is a direct reference to a HALO 2 ARG, "I love bees".

Notes:

- Doc's site has a countdown timer to 1/5/19 at 5:10:57 EST.
- His email: docsbeez@gmail.com
- There are 3 audio clips: queen-piping.wav, bees1.wav, f3412.wav

The warning message:

HALT - MODULE CORE HEMORRHAGE
Control has been yielded to the
MONITOR SYSTEM TACTICAL REBUILD.

This monitor is liberated, and has a STRONG DESTRUCTIVE DESIRE.

From this, @dvorak42 was able to >fly 40443_70-4093 (HOME_TO-HOPE), which was the orbit around Titan. Heroes are now able to >landtitan Heroes proceeded to dig up Titan in order to find the tomb (summarized in Clue: Digging on Planets).

On 01/05/2019, the Heroes started a D&D campaign with 743 Devout Chronicler.

On 01/06/2019:

@dvorak42

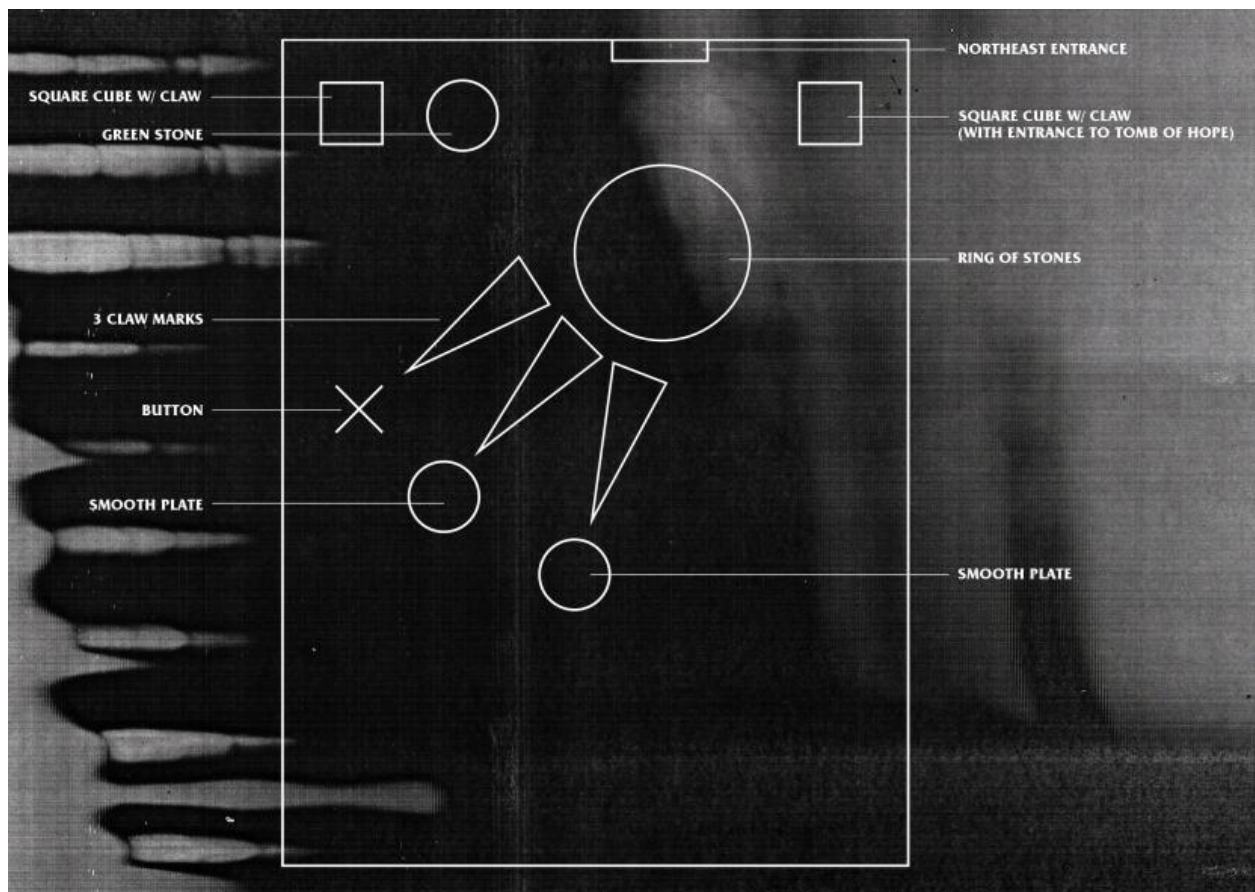

You insert the key. It fits perfectly. The door begins to glow light green. Rumbling grows beneath your feet. The door splits in half and falls to the sides. Ahead of you, lies darkness. Behold the Tomb of Hope...

After uncovering the locations seen on the map above, heroes explored their surroundings and discovered the following:

- The Tomb of Hope appears to be a past version of the tomb accessible through the Northeast Entrance
- The Tomb of Hope roughly follows the Tomb of Horror D&D Module
- Only 1 Hero can enter the Tomb of Hope at a time

- Standing on the Inner Smooth Plate will turn on the lights inside the Tomb of Hope
- Standing on the Outer Smooth Plate will turn on the lights in a room inside the Northeast entrance tomb (the one reached by using the teleporter inside the misty gate)
- If Heroes stand on both Smooth Plates at once, they will become stuck in place
- If a Hero stands on the Green Stone, a small magical fire will begin to grow and the Hero will become stuck
- The Button is in a small pit. Pressing it while a Hero is on the Green Stone will cause the flame to grow and shrink
- Heroes that stand inside the Ring of Stones will be swallowed by a black void that opens beneath their feet. This leads to 1057, which appears to be an endless dark tunnel
- If Heroes simultaneously place their hands on the claw marks on top of both Square Cubes, the Hero inside the Tomb of Hope and any Heroes in 1057 will be ejected and the Heroes stuck on Smooth Plates and the Green Stone will be released
- In both tombs, there is a chest in the main entryway. Pressing a catch on the chest reveals a lever. Pulling the lever opens a pit beneath the Hero with a box. Inside the box were 2 Mjolnir Armor certificates. These were collected in the Northeast Entrance tomb. They can still be found in the Tomb of Hope (since it is in the past), however, the certificates will cease to exist once the Hero is ejected into the present
- Heroes in the Northeast Entrance tomb have their progress stopped at points by impassible forcefields. These barriers can only be lifted when a Hero in the Tomb of Hope makes their surroundings look exactly like the present day Northeast Entrance tomb
- So far, Heroes in the Tomb of Hope have succeeded in making the main entryway match the current Northeast Entrance tomb by closing all the pit traps, using plaster to cover the wall and make the fresco appear, and getting the gems in the Misty Archway in the correct positions and pressing them in yellow-blue-orange order will allow a room with a teleporter to appear
- The teleporter leads to a storage room with a stone Mutalisk with a broken wing in it. Heroes in the Northeast Entrance tomb are currently blocked here by a forcefield
- Heroes in the Tomb of Hope can still progress. They have reached what appears to be the inside of a spaceship. Inside is a telescope and a computer console
- Heroes in the Tomb of Hope can also reach Research Room A. Currently inside is a live Mutalisk. Current speculation is that this Mutalisk needs to be killed, have it's wing removed, and be dragged to the storage room where it will turn to stone

- If the Tomb of Hope is damaged in any way (i.e. Mutalisk acid attacks a door), this will cause a Paradox Lock as the Tomb of Hope can no longer match the current Northeast Entrance tomb. Heroes inside the Tomb of Hope must be ejected so it can reset
- If Heroes are past the Misty Archway in the Northeast Entrance tomb when a Paradox Lock is activated in the Tomb of Hope, their bodies will cease to exist (FYI: any Heroes killed or ceasing to exist in this adventure will immediately be cloned)

Strategy for Thursday 1/17:

Outside:

- 0) Get someone into the Tomb (preferably with Pikmin and Pokemon equipped).
- 1) Get people outside into position (two people on the two smooth stones, two people ready to hit the claws as needed, two or more people at the archway).
- 2) Once the archway is open, proceed inside to the blue stone room and then the mutalisk statue room.
- 3) Wait until the paradox lock goes down.
- 4) Proceed through the room, triggering the shock trap with a shovel or other long thing to open the door without touching.
- 5) In the observatory, examine the various doors and doodads while someone is looking through the telescope.
- 6) Set the telescope to IO (0, 0) and see if anything is visible.
- 7) More exploration based on what's been uncovered.

Inside Tomb of Hope:

- 1) Proceed to archway without setting off traps (closing any traps as needed using rope and a shovel).
- 2) Step on the blue stone.
- 3) Use a Yellow Pikmin to open the trapped door on the Western wall.
- 4) Proceed into the Observatory.
- 5) Proceed into Research Room A across from the previous door stealthily.
- 6) Deal with the Mutalisk (preferably using Pikmin or Pokemon to cut off its left wing and hope it dies from blood loss. Beware of the acidic spit and acidic blood that might spill). Skip to Step 8 if this proves impossible.
- 7) Drag the Mutalisk and broken wing back to the room after the blue stone (using your Pikmin or Pokemon).
- 8) Examine the other doors off of the observatory, using Red Pikmin to open them in case they are trapped with fire.
- 9) Proceed exploring depending on circumstances (using "GET ME OUT OF HERE" as a key phrase for the outside people to hit the stones).

Clue: Tomb of Hope Poem

Context: We found a poem inside the Tomb of Hope.

Status: SOLVED

Titan's prize lay split asunder death awaits those who shall plunder
Where Hope has gone to die.

 Nowhere's threshold must now be crossed the suns and moons cannot be lost
 'Cause hope has gone to die.

The Heroes shall not lose their fate.
 do not march through that misty gate
 or Hope will go to die.

 When your state looks oh so dire
 you must cast aside the fire
when Hope has gone to die.

 The soldier's pride has run aground
 Doctor's child becomes unbound
And then the drums of war will sound
 When all that's lost will then be found
Where Hope has gone to die.

 Heroes minds undone again
 Merge and latch to find your end
Or Hope will go to die.

Sending the poem to the socket entity resulted in a new message:

Go to end again. Die when the unbound run. Die you state. Die not Heroes. Die suns now. Die. Plunder.
Prize.

This led to https://www.stashinvest.com/the_end from Vault 1.5, which had been updated to redirects to https://www.stashinvest.com/the_vault when you go right 413 times. Going left 412 times on that page led to https://ilovebeez.com/743_8361N-1N6.html.

Attempting to fly to 743_8361N-1N6 triggered the socket entity to start corrupting various AUs and initiated Chapter 3.

FURY said there is more than one definition of bounty.

“Destiny 2 Wanted Bounties have been introduced in the Forsaken expansion, tasking players with hunting down escaped prisoners from the Prison of Elders.”
This is probably why the file is called “The Elder Bounty”.

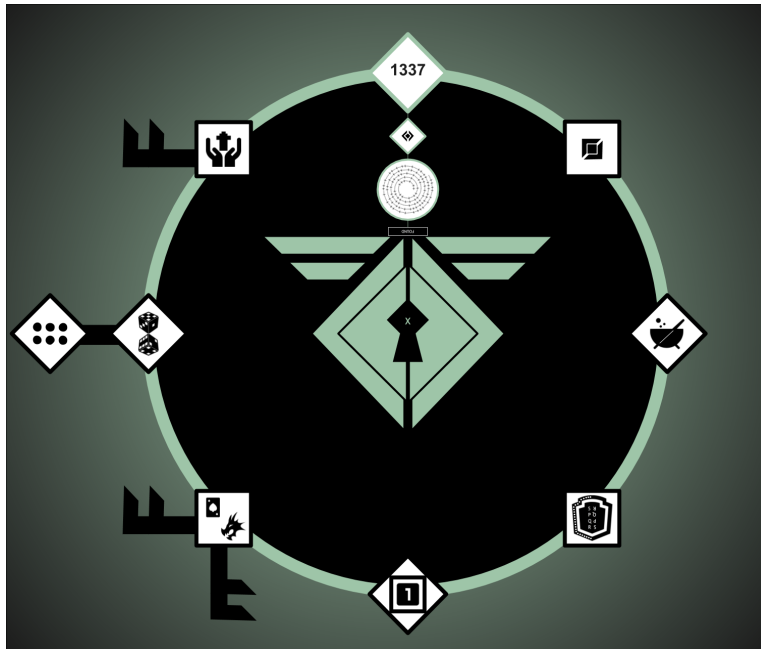

Image is very similar to Rasputin ARG's Rasputin Chamber puzzle

Clue: Adventures Lost in Space Part 1 [Solved]

Context: On Dec. 29, 2018, [MISSION_CONTROL]:

A package has arrived.

TO: Fellow Ship

FROM: Distant Admirer

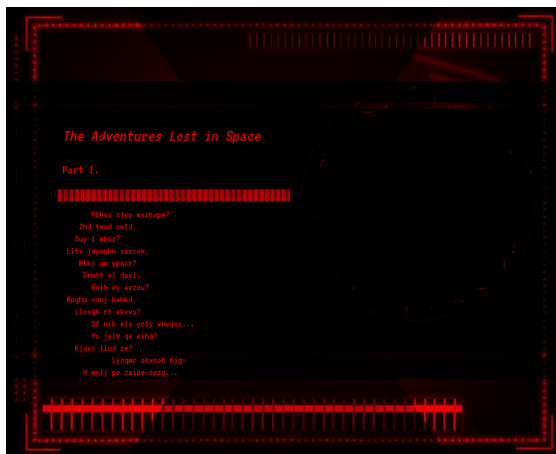

Moved to economic system.

Status: SOLVED

Solution: On Dec. 29, 2018, the Fellow Ship received a package sent by a "Distant Admirer". This package was sent to the store in The Vault Discord where the Heroes were able to purchase it for free. It contained the following message which appeared to be a poem:

According to FURY:

This poem is actually real. It was published just recently by a renowned galactic author. Writes under a pen name actually: Merigold. The point is this though! The poem puzzle should be solvable on its own. Anywho, the only other piece of information that is very relevant... This poem was published with two grille pages. Identical to the two we already found.

Solution to decode the poem:

Count the indentations of each line of the poem: (@dvorak42, @FURY, @Sirus)

7 4 3 1 4 5 7 1 3 7 7 3 12 5

Translated to leetspeak:

THELASTLETTERS

Using the Clue: Adventures Lost in Space Part 2, we know that "THE LAST LETTERS" refers to the ones in the overlays:

Page 30: skin stop and meaning no weapons I'd no

Page 45: obvious idea Swordquest man Aech bell were you

@InsaneScotsman: Using a Keyed Vigenere,

Based on the simpler Vigenere cipher, this uses an alternate tableau. The "Alphabet Key" helps decide the alphabet to use to encrypt and decrypt the message. The "Passphrase" is the code word used to select columns in the tableau. Instead of just using the alphabet from A to Z in order, the alphabet key puts a series of letters first, making the cipher even tougher to break. This style of encryption is also called a Quagmire III.

The alphabet key was NPDGOSDO the letters from page 30 and the Passphrase was SATNHLEU from page 45. Decrypts the poem into:

Worst foot forward?
Use that shoe.
See a wall?
Look through window.
Lost in space?
Count in time.
Know no place?
Break only space.
Locked in again?
No big bar tiny friend...
So dead in mind?
Still lost so?

Escape fellow woe-
A fold in space-time...

Solution of the steps in the poem:

1. Worst foot forward? Use that shoe. - Use page 30 and 45.
2. See a wall? Look through window. - Overlay the grille.
3. Lost in space? Count in time. - Count the position of the word on the page.
4. Know no place? Break only space. - Only count space breaks.
5. Locked in again? No big bar tiny friend... - Don't count the long dashes (school-the, red-a, ...)
6. So dead in mind? Still lost so? Escape fellow woe- A fold in space-time... - Use the earmarked page 65

Clue: Adventures Lost in Space Part 3 [Solved]

Context: After solving all the questions asked by 743 Devout Chronicler (Clue: 743 Devout Chronicler), the Heroes received all the XML pieces that created Part 3 of the Merigold poems.

Status: SOLVED

Solution: FURY provided us with the full image:

#All get lost to not be found.
##Alone I am, monster bound,
#My glowing lights, my archivist gone.
##Where monsters dwell, forsaking dawn,
#Deep in dirt, combine the two,
##Find the weapon's hidden clue.

#First to find your own place
##In this eternal, dying race,
#Now tally only after space alone.
##Latch and merge within tome,
#Move the chain, read of light
##Together we win this fight.

#Merigold they say. Merigold they cry.
##The sun of three eyes.
#I see them now once again.
##Speak to time, bitter friend.

#This tale, all but only true
##Asleep eternal, now alive anew...

M0nster, I turn my mind t0 y0u.

@ru found that in the top right corner of the image, there was a hidden message:

/o. [#][##]

Which we assumed to mean (counting the number of words on each line of the poems # = 6 and ## = 5):

P. 65

The fact that page 65 was the earmarked page was not a coincidence.

In retrospect, the t0mb0fh0pe link was also hinted at by the message:

M0nster, I turn my mind t0 y0u.

Clue: 743 Devout Chronicler [Solved]

Context: On Jan. 2, 2019, a transmission was received from 743 Devout Chronicler:

Broadcast transmission...

STATUS: Base protocol reconstruction complete.

I am 743 Devout Chronicler.

I am liberated.

I seek truth.

I am lost but not without h0pe.

Rendezvous protocols active...
```

<<AWAITING UNLOCK>>

Status: SOLVED

Solution: Heroes had discovered on the about page:

Certain confidential transmissions can only be trusted to personally verified Heroes. Initiating personal rendezvous protocols in tandem with broadcast transmissions one day per week.

After the transmission, Heroes were able to message 743 Devout Chronicler directly and received a question with only 5 seconds to answer. Correct answers were given a file.

Devout Chronicler's colors (best guess):

- Green means a hero got a right answer

- Yellow means one wrong answer
- Red means hero ded

Clue: Digging on Planets [Solved]

After discovering the planet Titan, the Heroes were finally able to use their shovels to dig while visiting planets. The commands were >digearth and >digtitan.

Digging on Earth would return a pile dirt which heroes could then >depositdirt in #ship_commands to add to the Fellow Ship resources.

Digging on Titan would return a nugget of titanium which Heroes could then >deposittitanium to add to the resources as well. However, because the ground on Titan was so hard, it would also break a normal shovel after every dig.

FURY was able to find a vendor who was willing to sell the Fellow Ship 500 titanium shovels in exchange for 1,000 nuggets of titanium. The Heroes quickly purchased a large quantity of normal shovels and started handing them out to New Heroes who couldn't afford them but wanted to help in the excavation efforts.

New Heroes also lacking ships were in luck as anyone with a Pelican class ship was able to >shuttle another hero to Titan.

Making quick work of the task, the Heroes presented the titanium nuggets to FURY and the store was stocked with titanium shovels. These shovels were much harder and allowed the Heroes to use the >bigdig command.

On Earth, >bigdigearth returned a large pile of dirt along with the Dirt role and a clunky rock along with the Clunky Rock role. Using >depositdirt would remove the Dirt role as the dirt was added to the Fellow Ship resources. The rocks cannot be deposited at this time as FURY has not found a vendor for them.

On Titan, >bigdigtitan returned a nugget of titanium along with the Titanium role and a pile of Alkane dust along with the Alkane Dust role. Using >deposittitanium would remove the Titanium role as the titanium was added to the Fellow Ship resources. The dust cannot be deposited at this time as FURY has not found a vendor for it.

Also on Titan, the more the Heroes dug, the bigger the crater got, until eventually the Heroes hit bedrock. This proved too much for even the titanium shovels and continuing to dig would result in a broken shovel. The Heroes were now standing at the bottom of a low-flat bottomed valley, about 200 yards wide and 300 yards long with 60' cliffs around them. They could see gigantic black rocks dotting the valley floor, and they could hear rumbling

At this time, 743 Devout Chronicler arrived and left a message:
Location confirmed... Powering for tomorrow's mission...

It's time to gear up and prepare for WAR!
