

PROTECT WETLANDS AND WORLD HERITAGE SITE IN NAMIBIA AND BOTSWANA

As we witness the alarming disregard for our planet's well-being and the rights of indigenous communities, it becomes increasingly clear that urgent action is needed. Across the globe, corporations prioritize profit over people, exploiting natural resources and disregarding the voices of those most affected by their actions. One such example is the situation unfolding in Namibia's Kavango basin, where ReconAfrica's oil project threatens both the environment and the livelihoods of local communities.

We cannot stand idly by as corporations trample upon human rights and endanger our planet's future. It's time to raise our voices in solidarity with the affected communities and demand accountability from those responsible. By sharing these tweets and amplifying the message of environmental justice, we can spark meaningful change.

Let's stand together to protect indigenous rights, preserve precious ecosystems, and advocate for sustainable practices that prioritize people and planet over profit. Together, we can make a difference. Join us in the fight for a more just and sustainable world.

1. Indigenous rights matter! ReconAfrica's oil project in Namibia disregards Free, Prior and Informed Consent from the Kavango and San peoples. Environmental justice demands consultation, respect, and protection for indigenous communities. #SaveOkavango #RefuellingAfrica

2. Water is life, yet ReconAfrica's oil drilling threatens Namibia's already scarce water resources. From pollution concerns to excessive usage, this project jeopardizes the fragile ecosystems of the Okavango delta and Kavango basin. #RefuellingAfrica

3. Communities deserve a voice! ReconAfrica's lack of consultation with locals in Namibia is unacceptable. Respect for farmers, fishers, and tourism-based livelihoods is essential. Environmental decisions must prioritize people over profits. #RefuellingAfrica

4. Protect biodiversity! The Kavango basin is a haven for wildlife, including Africa's iconic species. ReconAfrica's oil project threatens habitats and endangers species like elephants, lions, and giraffes. We must defend nature from corporate greed.

5. Say NO to fracking! ReconAfrica's pursuit of shale resources in Namibia's Kavango basin puts communities and environments at risk. From water contamination to public health hazards, fracking poses grave dangers. Stand against this destructive practice. #RefuellingAfrica

6. Environmental Impact Assessments must be thorough and accurate. ReconAfrica's flawed assessments fail to address critical concerns raised by experts and local communities. We demand transparency, accountability, and genuine environmental protection. #RefuellingAfrica

7. Climate action means rejecting new fossil fuel projects. ReconAfrica's oil ambitions in Namibia conflict with global efforts to limit warming. We cannot afford to unleash more carbon emissions into our atmosphere. It's time for clean energy solutions. #RefuellingAfrica

8. Exploitation disguised as progress! ReconAfrica's disregard for protected areas like the Okavango Delta threatens irreplaceable ecosystems. We must defend UNESCO World Heritage Sites and safeguard our natural treasures.

9. Stand with indigenous communities! ReconAfrica's failure to obtain Free, Prior and Informed Consent violates human rights and environmental justice principles. Let's amplify the voices of the Kavango and San peoples against corporate exploitation. #RefuellingAfrica

10. Every drop counts! ReconAfrica's reckless water usage in Namibia's arid lands endangers both people and nature. We demand responsible water stewardship and sustainable practices that preserve precious resources for future generations.
