

Hey Taetro,

First of all, congrats on your whole career, your songs truly beat (speak) for themselves. I must also mention how accurate this quote is from your newest video: "Bring the listener on a journey so that the song is not boring". You are someone who truly understands his craft and your audience backs that for sure.

So now you're wondering why this person is complimenting me? "what does he want?"

Well, I would love to help out people interested in beat making aka your audience. Yet I have no knowledge in beat creation and you have a lot more than me and your competitors together.

I'm aware of how to get a message across and how to use emotions to get people interested. You are brilliant at making beats and would love to help people through a 1 on 1 call with you to help them grow. With a combined effort, I know we could make your brand grow infinitely.

You would love for your brand to grow and help out more people and I would love to be a gateway to that. I already have so many game-changing ideas in mind. Ranging from Youtube titles that everyone will click to an actual sales page as you seem to be missing one.

Let's arrange a call if that's okay with you and we can talk face to face, well through cameras. You can share your marketing problems (Which I have already seen). I will give you solutions(Which if I don't already have I will work day and night till I find them). Again at most, it would only take a little more than 15 minutes of our time.

Thanks.
