Very few people have any interest in numerological occultism, or the patience to read it at any length. I would suggest that you try to summarize your thesis in a one or two page overview, and if you can't do that then your ideas are probably too complicated even for you to understand them.

Hello Anonymous,

Thank you for your comment.

Whereas I readily accept that you have clearly little resonance with what is on offer, you have then projected your own lack of appreciation on to the article.

For example, if you were more familiar with recent developments in the topic of “Monster Moonshine” you would realise just how unfounded is your charge of “numerical occultism”.

Some topics – especially one such as this that is attempting to open up radical new ground – require a genuine interest and openness of mind to be appreciated and cannot be neatly reduced to one or two page overviews..
