

ASSIGNMENT

- 1 Pick one of the goals that your ideal self is going to achieve in the next 3-6 months
- 2 Identify the as many of the cause and effect chains that will lead to the desired result.
- 3 Identify any potential "unknowns" or assumptions in your understanding of the cause effect chains

1. My ideal self in 3-6 months is going to achieve a first client who is going to pay me and I, as a copywriter, I am going to provide as much value as I can.
2. At first it's going to take me learning how to communicate with clients by watching videos in courses. Then I will pick a niche and start to research about it and do a mission of a copywriting level 4 by analyzing top market players. After analyzing the market I would see a million ideas how I can help them, then I would see who that top person follows or find them by searching on google, social media. Then going to find the same business or people who own similar or same business. Then I will go to CA+SM campus and find videos on how to write or in level 4 and send my outreach to Dylan Maden or other people who are going to pinpoint my mistakes and give me feedback. I love feedback from others. Then I will set myself a goal and find 100 people in that market and in 2 days send them dm. While waiting for them to respond I would go through Agoge challenges, daily checklists and campus videos because all the answers to my question is in campus course center or in channels, I don't know how people don't win around winners you need to be such a loser to think about quitting, NEVER.
After getting a response or response I would set a project and hop on a sales call and talk with them asking questions about their business. I would lead that by asking questions that I prepared and then, after all the going back and forth. I would start doing research and finding as much info answering the market questions that Andrew has given. I would go back and forth by sending them that project until they like it. After that I would love to upsell him and try asking if he knows more business that I can help that would love to suggest to me for all the value I brought him.
3. My unknown is that I don't know a niche yet but I will figure it out by asking for ideas on chat gpt. That's all, maybe in the future I will know more unknowns but for now I know that I will figure it out no matter what, I'll ask in the chat or just by watching the all valuable videos on campuses. For now all I need to do is just work hard and manage my time.
