

YOUR BENEFITS

The lack of financial literacy is becoming a widely known topic that is gaining attention internationally. Being on the leading edge of attaining this knowledge will not only make the world better, but more importantly kids will grow up with a greater understanding of the economic system allowing them to make better decisions throughout their lives. About 56% of the world's engineering degrees awarded in 2009 were in Asia, compared with 4% in the U.S.

You will get marketable level of teaching experience before completing college. You will have the opportunity to make a real social difference, and stretch your skills in a new direction of teaching.
