

Research:

Avatar: 20 year old guy - Jake. Struggles to get girls and to be confident in social events. Spends a lot of his time online, playing video games, watching porn, etc.

Current State: Jake is currently studying at university and lives at home with both his parents and a sister. He spends a lot of his time alone or sometimes hangs out with his friends on the weekends to smoke weed or talk about the video games they play. As much as he would love to talk to girls and go on dates, the idea of it makes him scared shitless. What would he say? Where would they go? How should he ask? It's all too nerve wracking since he has no actual experience

Dream State: To start being confident around women. And to start being able to not only pull them but attract them. He wants to start taking bitches home and start getting some experience instead of being the virgin loser he currently is today.

Roadblock: Jake's problem is he doesn't know the right course of action to do this. He doesn't have the balls to go up to chicks and ask them out on a date. His confidence is major lacking

Solution: By building up his confidence, and figuring out what to say and act around women.

Product: Daygame mastery course - "MASTER Approaching & Pulling Women, ANYTIME, ANY PLACE"
