Preface

Hello and welcome to Operation Blue Harvest. The idea of the campaign is to focus on mission planning and strategy. Please see the OPBH rules section for details. In order to be successful, each squadron will need to utilize the correct weapons for the objectives. There is a limited pool of ordinance that each squadron commander will have decided ahead of time. Please feel free to contact 132nd.Evo if you have any suggestions or ideas. Also a big thank you to 132nd.Neck for a lot of behind the scenes help.

This document is designed to be enjoyed only in the realm of DCS. It is not intended to discriminate or paint any country or organization in a negative light.

Situation

Tensions with Iran had increased significantly since the beginning of 2010. The Israeli military seized a cargo ship carrying nuclear material on January 24th while on its way to Syria. After an international investigation, it was determined that the material originated from an Iranian power plant located near the city of Kerman. Intelligence also pointed to the Iranian government's direct involvement in the transport of nuclear material. Further sanctions were placed on Iran by the US and most European governments. Russia and China vetoed UN security council resolution S/RES/2028 \(2011\). The resolution called for UN inspectors to be allowed into the country's nuclear sites to confirm the nuclear material's origins and how it was allowed to be exported to Syria.

On March 14th President Obama instructed US forces into the Gulf region including the CVN-73 George Washington carrier group. Saudi Arabia and the UAE, due to its close connections with the United States and dislike of Iran, allowed coalition forces to be stationed in the region. Tensions continued to mount between both sides as Russia provided Iran with new Su-27 aircraft.

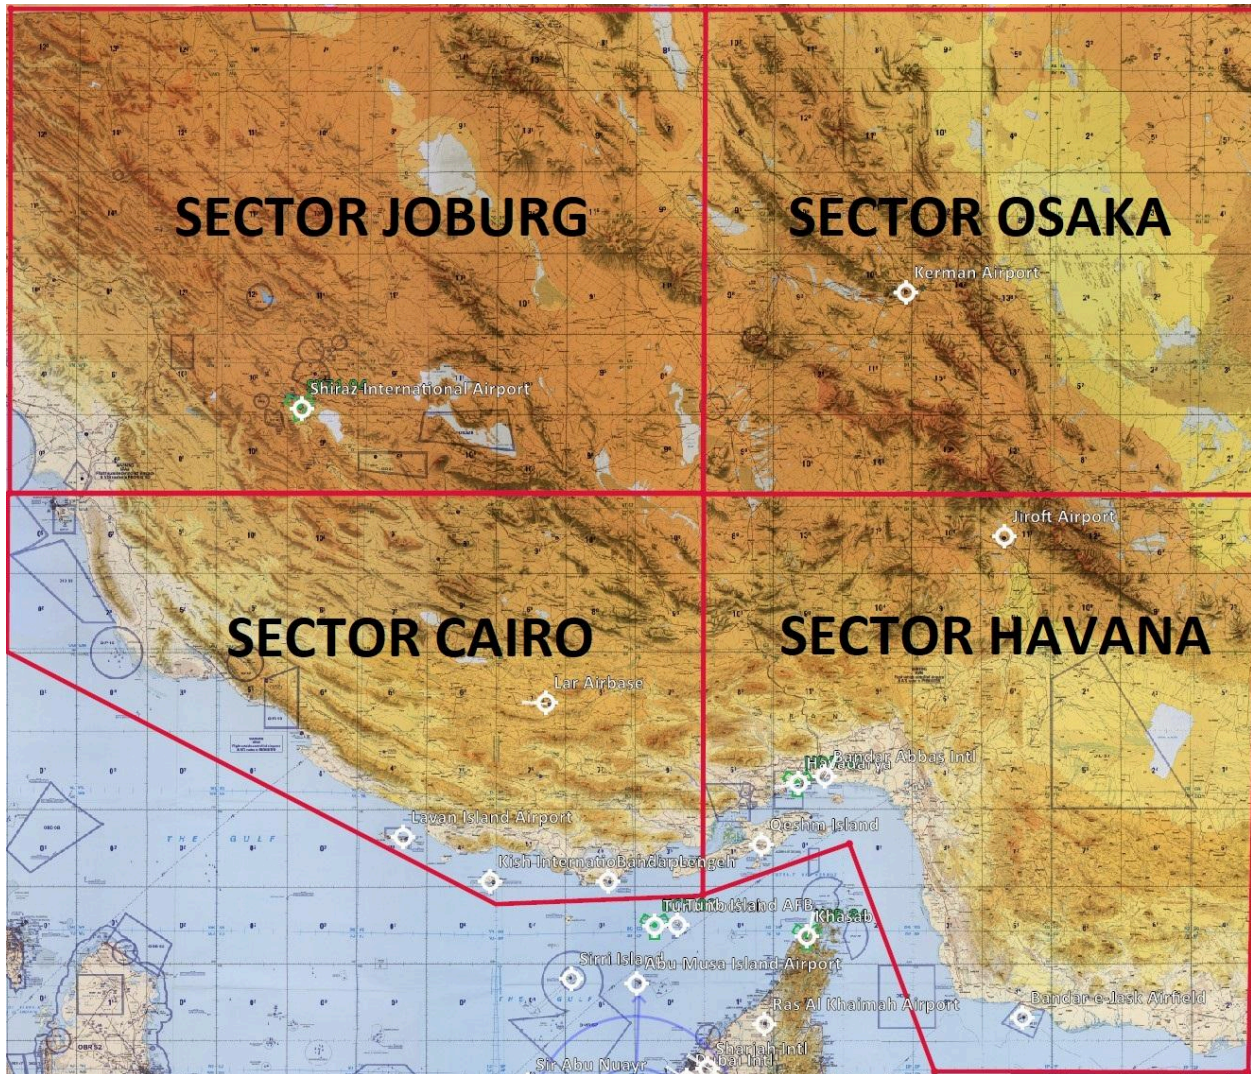

On May 1st an Iranian SA-15 shot down a Boeing 737 departing Tehran International Airport. Onboard were the last American diplomats leaving the country on President Obama's orders. 142 American lives were lost. The Iranian government claimed that it was a mistake but the tipping point to war had already been reached.

CJTF-101 has been created with the mission of dismantling the Iranian military.
