If you love Adventure, hiking, nature, rivers, and the wilderness, this class is for you!

Theme & Course Description:

Land Use, Natural Resource Management, and Sustainability. On three REQUIRED field trips (each up to 8 hours) to multi-use parks and public lands, students learn how land is managed for multiple user groups (hikers, mountain bikers, off-road vehicle enthusiasts, boaters, fishermen, rock climbers, and equestrians, etc.). With DNR forest managers, students learn about natural resource management in Washington state. Volunteering for the Lord Hill Regional Park & the US Forest Service, students experience the value of citizen service in caring for our wilderness and public lands. Students then visit an unmanaged recreation campsite and are at risk of being lost to public use. In the online portion of the class, students learn to research and write a research essay to solve two location problems. (Required field trip dates: July 11, 18, and 25. An additional fee is added to this class to cover the field trip costs.)

Email cseslar@everettcc.edu to get permission to enroll in this class. This is so I can clarify that the field trips are required, and we will be gone from 9 am - 6 pm on those three dates (this is earlier than our course start time when we meet in the classroom). If you are taking other courses summer quarter, take them on Mondays & Wednesdays or Online. If you take them on T/Th, you will have to miss three classes. If a course is only offered on T/TH, get permission from your other teacher because we will be 50 – 80 miles from Everett. You cannot come back for class.

If you are receiving this file from Cobi because you are asking permission to join class, please respond with a statement that you understand the field trips are required and that you can attend them all. Please include your CTCLink #. Thanks!

I look forward to sharing beautiful places with you this summer. Cobi
