Using the Perfect Tense of Verbs

Aspects of verbs show an action that happened at an indefinite time. Some of the aspects of verbs are the following:

The present perfect expresses an action that was completed sometime in the past or is still continuing in the present. It is formed by using has / have + past participle form of the verb.

Examples:

- Lea Salonga has helped the Filipinos who are greatly affected by the COVID -19 pandemic.
- She has inspired the other celebrities to do the same.
- I have realized how generous she is with her time, talent, and treasure.
- Coco Martin and Kim Chiu have expressed their opinions on the closure of ABS CBN.
- Their supporters have shown sympathy for them.

The past perfect expresses an action completed in the past before another action happened. It is formed by using had + past participle form of the verb.

Examples:

- She had gone to school when the classes were suspended.
- After they had studied for the test, they played scrabble for an hour.
- The plane had left by the time the second set of rescuers got to the airport.
- The commander had met them in the orientation before they arrived.

The future perfect describes an action that will still be completed sometime in the future. It is formed by using will have / shall have + past participle form of the verb.

Examples:

- The pupils will have cleaned the room by the time their fetchers come.
- The teacher shall have computed the grades by next week.

- c. The volunteers will have distributed all the relief packs by the afternoon next day.

Directions: Read the text below and look for the verbs in the present perfect form. Write them down on the box.

Everyone has dreamt of having a good leader. My cousins and I are lucky for we have found one right in our place. We have made him known to our friends. I have decided to introduce him to you. Charles D. Tejoso has been the barangay captain of Salapan since 2014. He has served the Salapeños for six years. I have seen him taking part in the Clean-up Drive in our place. He has shown concern for the environment. He has motivated the people in the barangay to maintain cleanliness to avoid flooding on rainy days. Like the other officials, he has also involved himself in school activities like Oplan Balik Eskwela, Brigada Eskwela, culminating activities in celebration of Nutrition Month and Buwan ng Wika, Teachers' Day, as well as Tribute to Parents. He has graced momentous occasions namely Recognition Day and Moving Up ceremony. He has accompanied good Samaritans to Salapan ES, our school. They have donated bags, notebooks, and other supplies which have been very useful to a poor child like me. What he has done will never be forgotten. I will always be grateful to him.
