Abstract

The abstract must be written in English and consist of 150–250 words. It should provide a concise overview of the research background, objective, methodology, principal findings, conclusion, and its contribution to the study of Islamic legal institutions. The abstract must be self-contained and should not include citations, footnotes, or unexplained abbreviations.

Keywords:

Provide 3–5 keywords that accurately represent the main themes of the article. Keywords should be separated by semicolons (;) and should support indexing and discoverability. Avoid repeating words already used in the title.

Abstrak

Indonesian authors are required to provide an Indonesian-language version of the abstract immediately after the English abstract. The Indonesian abstract must accurately correspond to the English version in terms of content and meaning. Authors who are not affiliated with Indonesian institutions are not required to provide an Indonesian-language abstract. (Cambria, 12 pt, italic)

Kata Kunci: 3–5 kata kunci dan dipisahkan dengan tanda titik koma (;).

Introduction (Cambria 14 pt, bold)

The introduction should present the research background and clearly identify the issue or institutional phenomenon related to Islamic legal institutions. It should establish a clear research gap through a critical engagement with recent and relevant literature, explain the significance of the study, and demonstrate its originality. Authors should present an appropriate theoretical or analytical framework, state the research objectives and questions, and highlight the article's contribution to the theory, governance, development, or transformation of Islamic legal institutions in diverse legal contexts. (Cambria 12 pt, single spacing, justified)

Methodology (Cambria 14 pt, bold)

The methodology should clearly describe the research design and approach employed, including normative (doctrinal), empirical, socio-legal, comparative, historical, interdisciplinary, or policy-oriented research, as appropriate. Authors should explain the data sources, methods of data collection, and analytical techniques used to address the research questions. The methodology should demonstrate a systematic, transparent, and rigorous research process that ensures the credibility and reliability of the study. (Cambria 12 pt, single spacing, justified)

Findings and Discussion (Cambria 14 pt, bold)

This section presents the research findings and provides a critical discussion in relation to the research objectives and questions. The analysis should be organized using appropriate subheadings, critically engage with relevant literature and theoretical perspectives, and clearly demonstrate the originality and scholarly contribution of the study to the theory, governance, development, or transformation of Islamic legal institutions. Tables, figures, or charts may be included where appropriate and should be accompanied by analytical interpretation rather than descriptive explanation. (Cambria 12 pt, single spacing, justified)

Subheadings (Cambria 14 pt, bold, italic)

Subheadings should organize the discussion according to the major themes or issues addressed in the study. Each subsection should present a coherent analysis supported by relevant evidence, literature, and theoretical or analytical perspectives. (Cambria 12 pt, single spacing, justified)

Table Format:

Table X. Title of the Table (Cambria 12 pt, bold, centred)

Column	Column	Column

Source: Prepared by the author based on research findings or relevant references. (Cambria 10 pt, Italic, single spacing)

Figure Format:

Source: Prepared by the author based on research findings or adapted from relevant references. (Cambria 10 pt, Italic, single spacing)

Figures should be clear, legible, and of high resolution. Each figure must be numbered consecutively using Arabic numerals (Figure 1, Figure 2, etc.) and accompanied by a concise title placed above the figure. The source or explanatory note should be placed below the figure. Figures must be cited and discussed in the main text and should contribute directly to the analysis rather than merely illustrating the findings. Authors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyrighted materials where applicable.

Conclusion (Cambria 14 pt, bold)

The conclusion should concisely summarize the main findings without repeating the discussion. It should clearly answer the research objectives, highlight the study's original contribution, and explain its implications for the theory, governance, development, or transformation of Islamic legal institutions. Where appropriate, authors may provide practical or policy recommendations and suggest directions for future research. (Cambria 12 pt, single spacing, justified)

DECLARATIONS: (Cambria 14 pt, bold)

Author Contributions (only for articles with more than one author)

Select and adapt the statement below according to the actual contributions of each author.

Option: Each author contributed to the conceptualisation, methodology, investigation, analysis, and writing of the manuscript. All authors reviewed and approved the final version of the manuscript.

Authors should specify individual contributions where contributions differ substantially.

Funding Information (Select one option below)

[Option 1] The authors received no financial support for the conduct of this research, the preparation of this manuscript, or its publication.

[Option 2] This research was supported by [Name of Funding Institution/Ministry/University] through the [Name of Research Grant Scheme], under Grant/Contract No. [Grant/Contract Number].

Conflict of Interest Statement (Select one option below)

[Option 1] The authors declare that they have no financial or personal conflicts of interest that could have influenced, or could reasonably be perceived to have influenced, the analysis and arguments presented in this article.

[Option 2] The authors declare that there is no conflict of interest in the publication of this article.

Data Availability Statement (Optional; particularly for normative/doctrinal research)

[Option 1] The legal materials or secondary data used to support the findings of this research are available from the corresponding author upon reasonable request.

[Option 2] All legal materials, judicial decisions, and supporting data analysed in this research are fully cited or presented in the published article.

Generative AI Statement (Select one option below)

[Option 1] During the preparation of this manuscript, the authors used [Name of AI Tool] solely to improve language, grammar, and readability. The authors critically reviewed and edited all AI-assisted output and retain full responsibility for the final content of the manuscript.

[Option 2] During the preparation of this manuscript, the authors used [Name of AI Tool] to assist with literature mapping and/or the organisation of empirical data. All legal arguments, conclusions, and legal reasoning were independently verified, critically assessed, and approved by the authors.

[Option 3] The authors declare that no generative artificial intelligence or other AI-assisted tools were used in the preparation, writing, or analysis of this manuscript.

Instructions for Authors

Before submitting the manuscript, please remove all unused options and all instructional text in square brackets [...]. Retain only the statement that accurately reflects the circumstances of the research and manuscript

References (Cambria 14 pt, bold)

References must be prepared in accordance with the Chicago Manual of Style, 17th edition (fullnote), Notes and Bibliography system, and arranged alphabetically by the authors' surnames. All sources cited in the manuscript must appear in the reference list, and all entries in the reference list must be cited in the manuscript. Citations must be presented in numbered footnotes, using full bibliographic information at the first citation and shortened citations for subsequent references.

The manuscript should include a minimum of 20 scholarly references, with at least 80% consisting of recent peer-reviewed journal articles from reputable academic journals. Authors should prioritise relevant and current scholarship, particularly publications from the last five to ten years, while seminal works may be cited where theoretically or conceptually necessary. Primary legal materials, including legislation, regulations, constitutional provisions, judicial decisions, and official legal instruments, should be cited using appropriate legal citation conventions.

DOIs must be provided in <https://doi.org/...> format whenever available, both in the full first footnote and in the reference list. URLs should be included for official legal documents, institutional publications, and other online sources where appropriate. Authors are strongly encouraged to use Mendeley Reference Manager to ensure consistency and accuracy in citation and reference formatting.
