

Last Updated: 01/20/24

Note: NONE OF THESE ARE CANON. All are personal ideas for Victor Grantz.

- » He is a transmasculine man PRE-OP. (He/Him)
- » He is plus sized (chubby) and a somewhat shorter man, but that doesn't stop him from being physically strong.
- » He has a burn scar beneath his left eye. These scars spread to his left arm as well as his left shoulder and back due to the fire.
- » He is tan due to his work as a postman, requiring him to be outside much more frequently before entering the manor.
- » He has small, light freckles that spread across his cheeks and down to his shoulders and arms where he doesn't have scarring.
- » His voice is extremely soft, yet raspy when he talks. Despite that, he much often prefers communicating through ASL (American Sign Language). He will often default to a pencil and tiny notebook though for those who may not understand sign language.
- » He isn't fond of physical contact, but can make exceptions for the people he trusts/is comfortable with.
- » He's a very talented harmonica player! He's been learning songs since the day his friend gave him his very own harmonica. He's too shy to play for other people, but can play for himself in the secrecy of his room.
- » His love for flowers shows within his room at the manor. He has various pots/vases of flowers beside his otherwise messy desk and even on his window sill.
- » He's a decent cook when put into the kitchen. He's used to cooking for himself and Wick, but doesn't mind making small snacks for others if asked to.
- » He smells of wet dog and vanilla, two scents that mainly stick to his uniform.
- » He owns a pair of thin glasses that he keeps on his desk. He only uses them when he writes for long periods of time.