INTRODUCTION

Please enter the text in the space provided. The introduction, comprising no more than 500 words, should elucidate the contemporary issues that underpin the significance of the research, explicitly delineate the objective of the research, and delineate the state of the art of the research topic in a manner that enables the principal aspects of the research to be readily comprehensible to the readers. Nevertheless, the introduction should refrain from including an excessive number of references to existing literature, as it is not intended to serve as a preliminary discussion.

MATERIALS AND METHODS

Please begin entering your text or pasting your material here. This section should provide a comprehensive account of the research materials and methods employed, with sufficient detail to enable other researchers to replicate the study. The materials utilized should not be itemized in a separate section; rather, they should be incorporated into the description of the research procedures. To illustrate, In the questionnaire, respondents were instructed to complete the items using a 2B pencil and to select one of three posters displayed by the researcher. It is unnecessary to provide this additional detail. The research materials included questionnaires, 2B pencils, and posters. In the event that the research employs a proprietary product (such as a patented item) for comparison, the product should be described by its standard chemical name or its trademark in parentheses, should this be deemed helpful for the reader's comprehension. However, written permission from the proprietor of the product must be obtained prior to its publication. The model, type, brand, and manufacturer of the equipment utilized in the research should be delineated. The statistical analysis methods and models should be clearly delineated so that other researchers may readily replicate them. The writing system is organized as follows: material, experimental design and treatment, research procedures, laboratory analysis, and statistical analysis. This system is not rigid; it can be adapted to the characteristics of the scientific field. For instance, in agribusiness research, where there is no laboratory analysis, there is no need for laboratory analysis.

RESULT AND DISCUSSION

This section presents the research results, including the results of the statistical analysis, in detail. Should the necessity arise, illustrations may be presented in tabular or graphical form. Tables and figures should be straightforward, informative, and readily comprehensible. They should also be self-contained, in a sense, so that the reader can grasp the essentials without having to refer to the text. The information presented in the table or figure should be referenced in the text without being repeated. Tables and figures are presented on a separate page from the main text.

Subsequently, the research results are discussed in comparison with the findings of previous studies on analogous topics. This analysis determines whether the results are consistent or divergent. The scientific rationale for these outcomes is then elucidated in a comprehensive and straightforward manner, thereby elucidating the position of the research results. Furthermore, the research findings are disclosed, accompanied by an assessment of their strengths and weaknesses, if any. This presentation of the research findings facilitates the conclusion of the research results.

It is recommended that treatment mean data be presented with standard errors. The statistical significance levels can be expressed as $P < 0.05$, $P < 0.01$, and $P < 0.001$. In tables, the level of significance can be indicated with an asterisk, double asterisk, or triple asterisk, respectively. In tables and graphs, differences between treatments can be indicated by the letters a, b for $P < 0.05$ and A, B for $P < 0.01$.

CONCLUSION AND IMPLICATION

The conclusion presents findings from the research that are novel, original, pioneering, universal, and contribute to the advancement of scientific knowledge and technological development. Statements in the conclusion are devoid of statistical terminology, such as "significant effect ($P < 0.05$)."

The authors must elucidate the implications of their research results for scientific development and their impact on the environment, society, culture, the economy, politics, and/or the law. The implications are presented in a straightforward manner, ensuring that non-scholarly readers can readily comprehend them.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Acknowledgments are required in instances where the research was supported by an institution, individual, or peer reviewer, whether in terms of cost, facilities, labor, or manuscript review prior to publication.

LAMPIRAN

Tabel dan Gambar

Tabel dan/atau gambar yang diacu pada teks badan tajuk Materi dan Metode dan/atau Hasil dan Pembahasan, harus disajikan secara terurut sesuai dengan nomor tabel atau nomor gambar pada bagian lampiran ini.

Penulisan Nama Penulis yang Diacu pada Teks

Nama penulis yang diacu di dalam teks tidak diperkenankan menggunakan footnote. Jika jumlah penulis kurang dari tiga nama penulis ditulis semua, jika jumlah penulis tidak kurang dari tiga, hanya penulis utama yang ditulis dan diikuti dengan et al. Contoh: Syamsah (2010) menyimpulkan bahwa pajak dan zakat memiliki hubungan reduktif dan deduktabel. Parameter kualitas layanan puskesmas secara simultan mempengaruhi kepuasan pasien (Yuningsih dan Maulana 2010). Kekurangan dari kualitas pelayanan rumah sakit dapat diatasi apabila rumah sakit memperhatikan karakteristik pasien (Rahmawati et al. 2010). Tingkat kepuasan pasien menjadi indikator penting dalam mengukur kualitas pelayanan kesehatan (Yuningsih dan Maulana 2010; Rahmawati et al. 2010).

Tabel harus dibuat sesederhana dan sesedikit mungkin, namun sekurang-kurangnya harus memuat dua baris data. Jika hanya ada satu baris data, maka penyajiannya harus menggunakan grafik. Garis horisontal tabel hanya boleh untuk mencirikan batas baris teratas (heading) dan garis terbawah dari badan tabel, sedangkan garis-garis kolom tabel tidak diperkenankan. Tabel dibuat dengan menggunakan fungsi tabel dalam program microsoft office word. Judul tabel harus ringkas, jelas, dan informatif, diberi nomor urut angka arab, huruf kapital hanya pada huruf pertama judul tabel kecuali beberapa nama diri, dan ditempatkan di atas badan tabel. Lazimnya, peubah disajikan dalam baris dan perlakuan disajikan pada kolom tabel. Keterangan tabel disajikan di bagian bawah badan tabel tanpa menuliskan kata keterangan. Di dalam teks, nomor tabel harus dirujuk, misalnya: kepribadian dalam pandangan Islam merupakan integrasi sistem kalbu, akal, dan nafsu (Tabel 1). Judul tabel, tabel dan keterangan tabel disajikan pada halaman tersendiri setelah Daftar Pustaka. Lebar tabel 80 mm atau 160 mm. Jangan menyisipkan tabel pada bagian teks.
