

Auto Start a Slideshow on your Site

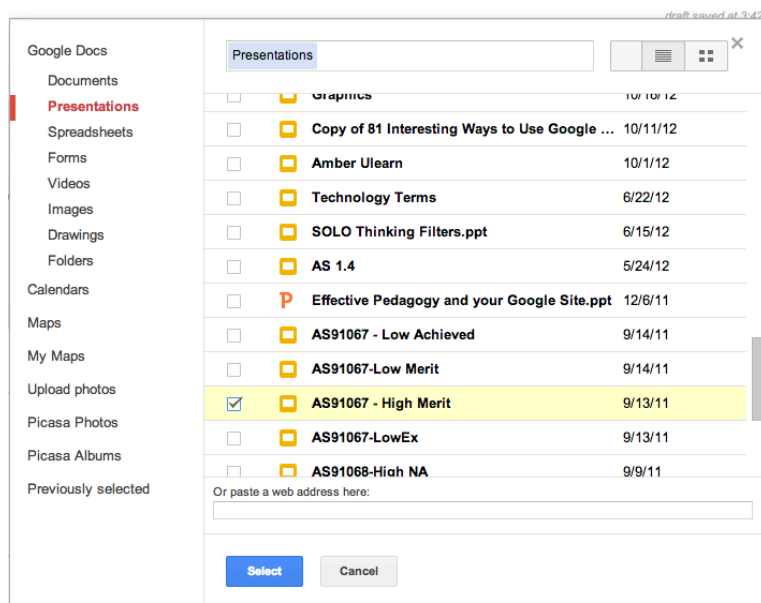

When you embed a slideshow onto your Google site page, you can set it to automatically start playing when the page loads.

When you edit your site page, choose insert and drive. Presentation is one of the listed options.

All of your presentations and the ones that have been shared with you will be listed here.

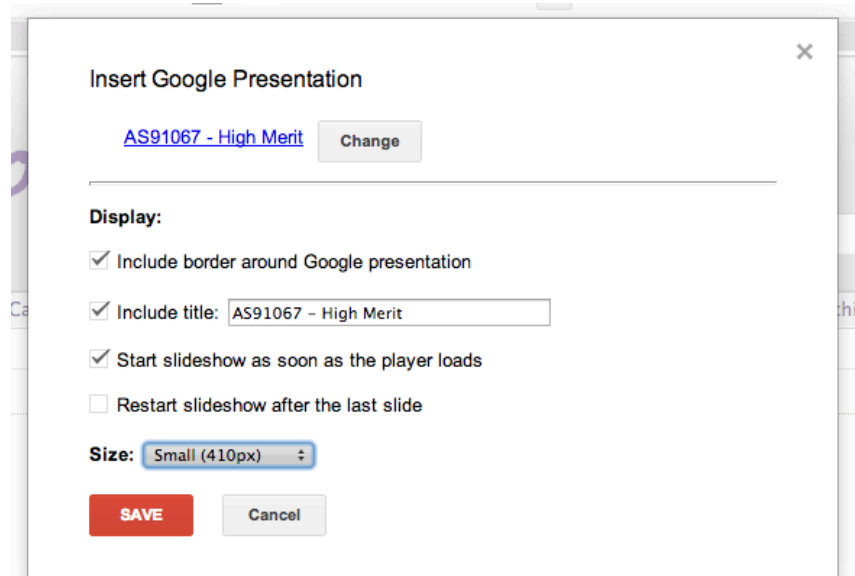

Tick the one that you want.

This next box is where you set it to play automatically when the page loads.
The 3rd option down “Start slide show as soon as the player loads”

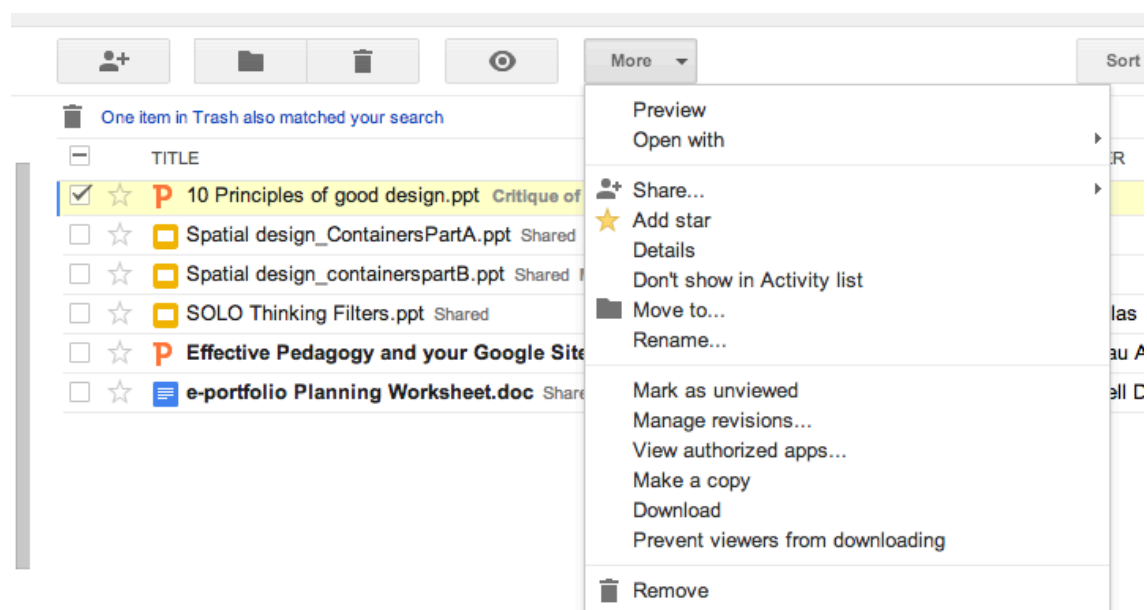

You can also choose from 3 size options here.

Click save when you are happy and then save your site page.

If your slideshow has been uploaded to your drive from a Power Point, and it is still in that format, you need to convert it first before you can embed it on a site.

In your drive, put a tick next to your powerpoint file and click the more menu.

In the “open with” option, choose Google Slides.
This will make another version of the file as a Google slideshow.
This will be the file you choose to embed on your site.
