The Mikugan Seduction

Chapter 3

"The Red Wedding...except it isn't a Wedding...it's just a well-made feast...and nobody important dies."

Dynamo Saxon rushed around the kitchen, letting his stress guide his steps and screams. Not screams of terror, at least not for him. They were screams of love, of joy, of anticipation. They were also screams for his lackeys to chop onions quicker. It was going to be a delicious and extravagant seven-course meal, one that the most beautiful Hatsune Mikugan was going to find delightfully scrumptious.

That is, if she attended.

He had been holding these mandatory dinners for...a few days? A week? Two? He couldn't really keep track, it's not like it mattered that much and...it had been 29-and-a-half days, and she still hadn't shown up. Not like he was counting. 708 minutes and 53 seconds since he had announced that the Master of Feasts, the Lord of Donuts, would be having nightly feasts. He had been sure she would arrive.

He had hope she would, tonight. He had to hold out that hope. He was Noah Seycastle, chef extraordinaire. That meant she would absolutely arrive tonight, if his cooks could ever finish prepari-

His idiot lackeys had absolutely destroyed the Meet. They drenched it with...milk. Lunatics. Luckily, he had arranged for the kitchen to be both air-tight and sound proof. Putting on his gasmask, he shut the doors.

He could hear the sounds of the spray, and looking up, he could see the aerosol. Besides that, he could see nothing of it. It was a rapid and odourless toxin, a toxin that would deal with all of these ingrates. He watched as they all noticed the sound, noticed the gasmask, noticed the spraying, and noticed his gasmask again.

The variety of reactions would be great for a study on the human condition, if he was a scientist and not an expert Chef. Some began to scream, others tried to attack, even more sat resigned. Nobody managed to rip off his gas mask, no one even came close to touching him. While those who fought and kicked died quick, screams dying shortly before they did, others lasted longer. Those who managed to cover their mouths and other orifices with wet rags and towels lasted a few more excruciating minutes. Some clever, cooperative, few managed to work together to jam the "sprinkler" system. This actually worked, which was shocking. Sadly, for them, the force of a bullet or two ripping through each of their chests could not be stopped by clogging it up with rags and chemicals.

With around twenty dead, Dynamo settled upon impressing his lady with Senecan Pineapple-soaked Beef. He hadn't served his most famous dish for a few months, and he believed it was his time to unleash the true repertoire of his palette.

As Dynamo walked about the arena of tables and dishes, he served many people his food. They all had many names, and some were more important than others. All devoured and delighted at his delicacy. In a long shroud, at the end of the table, he saw someone...beautiful. Someone opulent, perfect. It was Hatsune Mikugan, in the flesh, shyly smiling at him.

He approached her, food in hand, the best portion of the meat saved. He put it upon her plate, and she bit into it. She made a face, a face that was hard to read. She stared at him, boring deep into his soul. She pushed out her chair, causing silence, before she stood atop the table, the food in hand. Would she know that it was human? Would she care?

She looked upon the gathering of all her subjects, and Dynamo let out a silent prayer...to her. That was problematic. She opened her mouth, and Dynamo prepared for the worst...

Then, something beautiful happened. Angels sung as she did, her simple speech lathering him with joy and goodness. Her voice was amazing, fantastic, gorgeous.

Ringing across the banquet, across all of Michigan, she could be heard. Holding up the plate of food, of Dynamo's food, she proclaimed:

"YOU AINT FROM MICHIGAN IF YOU AINT TRIED THIS BEFORE"

Then, everyone clapped. Truly, everyone gave applause and cheers. His queen had spoken, he had heard her voice, and it was perfection. She sat down, and everyone returned to feasting.

Investment: Dynamo Saxon (/u/taqn22, skills in Cooking and Impersonation), 1PPG (from the treasury of my faction), plot bonuses to the Mikugan Seduction Plotline, Cooking, Impersonation, my abilities as Master of Feasts and Lord of Donuts

Result: Noah Seycastle begins his nightly feasts, of which everyone in the country attends either virtually or physically, both because the food is good, but also because they legally have to. This includes the players, but I don't see how this would harm or hinder them. At them, he knows that the ever-quiet and angelic Hatsune Mikugan will eventually arrive to one, and be smitten with his cooking. Not necessarily him, but the cooking is fantastic, so it's a stepping stone to her falling in love with *him***.

Hatsune Mikugan and Dynamo Saxon meet on positive terms, and Dynamo's skill in Cooking doubles, as well getting him a skill in Seduction. Massive boost to actually seducing Hatsune Mikugan romantically.

Success. You have perfected the art of Mikugani cuisine, and Hatsune Miku herself has taken notice.

PLOTS

Plot 1 : The War on Drugs

RP : Mad Max had an issue. All of his economic deregulation had had unexpected consequences: foreign drug dealers had infiltrated the economy and started peddling their dope, their crack, their meth, and their bath salts. It was horrible. While Mad Max first proposed that Canada build a great border wall to keep the southern foreigners out, he was informed by his aides that that would be too expensive. After chatting to some of his buddies in the private sector, Mad Max was informed that they stood to make good money on arms sales if Canada were to fight a war.

To get this war started, Mad Max went to his buddy Kenney. Kenney agreed that some war sounded fun, so the two proposed a bill to invade the Seneca Cartel and wipe them and their drugs off the face of the Great Lakes region. After that Mad Max went to his arms industry buddies and got them pumping out planes and tanks and rifles and grenades and machine guns and destroyers and all that good stuff. Meanwhile, Kenney drew up a very cunning invasion plan, involving a large army marching in to surround the enemy city of Genondowa, bombarding its garrison with artillery, and then storming the place with tanks and infantry.

Satisfied with his plan, and with his forces equipped with shiny new guns and such from Mad Max's arms factories, Kenney led his goons into the drug-addled lands of the Seneca Cartel, safeties off.

Invested : /u/Tefmon, /u/Quijas00, 1 Worker, 1 PPG

Results : Flip Genondowa and move an army of two Riflemen (Great War Infantry if Plot 4 is successful), two Landships, and four Artillery to surround it. Loris, please make sure the city isn't burnt to the ground.

Give /u/Tefmon skills in conquest, and give /u/Quijas00 skills in the military-industrial complex.

Partial Success. Unfortunately, the Deregulation causes some manufacturing defects in the artillery, and the city is not flipped. However, it loses 25 HP and the armies are moved to surround it. No skills are gained.

Plot 2 : Bill C-51

RP : With war brewing with the Seneca Cartel, O'Toole understood the need for a more secure, militarized society. One where people were trained from childhood to fight, to follow orders, and to snitch on their friends and family to the authorities. O'Toole would thus propose a bill to create such a society to parliament, and scam everyone into voting for it by making up some statistics, handing out bribe money, and talking about religion. He'd then have some of his military contractor buddies start setting up the new programs.

Invested : /u/CanadaHuntsYou, Great Musician, 1 mixed PPG and PPF, 1 PPF, Skills in military contracting and scams

Results : Gain all Honour policies.

Give /u/CanadaHuntsYou skills in social engineering.

Partial Success. Gain Half of the honour policies, and skills in social engineering. Leris, use the "Plot 2 Failed" expenditure sheet.

Plot 3 : Human Rights Commission

RP : As we all know, the Seneca suck, and need to have freedom and democracy brought to them. Why? Because they have ~~oil weapons of mass destruction~~ generic unspecified human rights violations. Clearly, this means that we have a responsibility to bring them freedom and democracy, by force if need be (and there is always need, the oil country isn't going to liberate itself).

However, war is never popular with the voters, and that means that The Right Honourable Stephen Harper PC MP, Prime Minister of Canada would need to hold some political rallies in order to make war the next big thing. Thankfully, with the Greens dead, no one could stop Harper from leveraging the power of Canadian oil to promote a war.

First, Harper would have robocalls made to every Canadian citizen's home, with a vaguely seal-like voice talking about how the cruel and evil Seneca forced his people out of their homes, and despite Canada now being a safe haven, he dearly misses his homeland. Of course, as Canadians, we're all racist against seals anyways, but that shouldn't matter, because for the next five or so minutes, all of Canada will be outraged at how someone else is mistreating seals without inviting us to join. If Briusky the suffering seal (or an unpaid intern playing his role) isn't enough, no doubt we can find some lowans to talk about how nasty and bad the Seneca are.

Next, Harper would work on finding a reason to motivate the voters to war. After all, for all of the moral outrage, actually getting people to care about minorities in other countries so you can invade them for oil is rather difficult. Thankfully, the Seneca city of Kanawagas served as ample provocation. Being settled so close to the Canadian border, it served as an excellent outpost for the Seneca cartel. As such, it was clear that in order to further the War on Drugs, Canada should make war on the Seneca.

With popular support behind the war, Harper would then channel the war support towards things like militarism, nationalism, and boosting the morale of the troops. He'd also use the popular support to enact policies that found more tank drivers, miners, and factory workers. Obviously, this further boosts war support, since now employment rates are going up. None shall stand in the way of Canadian expansion! It is time for Canifest Destiny!

Invested : /u/Andy0132, 1PPG, 2 PPF, 2X skills in corporate relations (Because the plot uses corporate aid)

Results : Gain Autocracy tenets in the following order: Militarism, Nationalism, Third Alternative, Elite Forces, Lightning Warfare, Total War. If the plot is extremely successful, spawn in some cool landships around Kingston and Oshawa.

Give /u/Andy0132 skills in manipulating public opinion.

Failure. Unfortunately, the NDP leaks a totally radical meme that has them writing snarky remarks in the margins of your robocall script. It is so totally epic that public support for the war dips to 0%.

Plot 4 : weeaboo fightan guns

RP : With the success of his schmoozing mission to the Anishinaabe, The Honourable Peter MacKay PC QC MP, Minister of Foreign Affairs, was sent on another diplomatic mission, this time to Mikugan. Thankfully, this time, Bernier had been reassigned to go rouse rabble, and otherwise not be the potential centre of a major diplomatic incident.

Mikugan was an odd land, known for being filled with weebos. However, MacKay's natural ability to suck up to whoever was in charge would no doubt endear him to these weirdos. After schmoozing with their officials, and having his aides and advisors (as he really couldn't be expected to do any of the work, that's what workers are for) copy down the relevant bits of tech, he and his entourage would then go home, replaceable parts secured. They would then promptly liaison with officials from the Ministry of Defence, and have some more workers work on replacing the American-Civil-War level tech and protection the soldiers had, with WW1 level weapons and helmets and whatnot. After all, those tend to be the most replaceable part of the soldier. With that, the acquisition of replaceable parts will be complete.

Invested : /u/sstefanovv, Skill in Schmoozing

Results : Steal the Replaceable Parts technology from Mikugan with their permission, and upgrade our Riflemen to Great War Infantry.

Give /u/sstefanovv skills in foreign research.

Success.

Plot 1 : #SmashSeneca

RP : "You guys are going so slow it makes Thy's plotrunning look fast!" Sakayengwaraton had finally found his calling. Being a drill sergeant was the perfect use of his intimidation skills. The new recruits were numerous thanks to the generous signing bonuses the government was handing out for joining the military. And it was his job to get them into shape to #SmashSeneca. "I've seen ships in Lego's navy more accurate than that! Don't even bother replacing the targets, it's not like any of you hit them." In battle, it would be easier for them to handle rifles - just point toward Seneca dudes and go pew pew. But it wouldn't hurt if they were skilled with a rifle - never know what kind of fun small squad tactics the generals were going to try out. Something about hit-and-run tactics were mentioned in one of the war councils, so boot camp would be focused on hitting and running. But still, some classics had to be brought out. "Drop and give me whatever they got up to in #people-write-numbers!" These would turn out to be fine soldiers indeed.

Invested : /u/briusky (skills in intimidation), 250 gold

Results : Recruit some more units to join in our smashing of Seneca

Success. Gain 2 riflemen in your city closest to the Seneca.

Plot 2 : Where there is no water, there is no life

RP : Kariwase was like, absurdly good at farming. To the point where a bunch of people started writing country songs about him and his tractor. But he wasn't content with that glory. He wanted to be a war hero. And get even more country songs written about him, this time not involving tractors. But how could a humble farmer shift the tide of war? He realized that the Seneca would need farms as good as his own in order to feed their soldiers. So he resolved to not let them get good farms. As a master of farming, he came up with subtle ways of cutting the production of the farms. Mess with fertilizer a little here, tweak the irrigation system to flood a field there. With his carefully drafted plans, he went to the mercenary goon market and purchased the services of some mercenary goons through an unintuitive and rigged bidding process. The mercenary goons pulled off his plans with expert skill, and soon the Seneca troops were starving to death.

Invested : /u/Quaerendo_Invenietis (skills in agriculture), 250 gold

Results : Seneca units die

Failure. Unfortunately, QI's newfound skills in swagriculture cause him to have too much swag. He is Immediately noticed because of his massive amounts of swag and shot on sight. riprip

Plot 3 : Ironclad ships will elevate humanity

RP :

Journal Entry # 495

Once our new Elite Defense Force was established we heard of fantastic news. We have declared war! Finally, it was time to enact our plan to systematically replace the Seneca animals with proper humans.

This meant it was time to equip those that didn't make the cut for the Elite Defense Force with some equipment that will allow even the weakest person to help spread our people and clean the outside world. As was preordained by nature. Thus, we've been tasked with building structures to produce ironclads. I wish I was lucky enough to meet our enemy in direct combat, but my duty to our cause was here, thus it is here that I will see that our walls are built and army equipped.

It took weeks, but the walls of our factory were finished within schedule. It wasn't long after that we were sprinting towards the creations of our new war boats to gain superiority over Seneca. Seeing our people put their heart and souls into their work was always a perfect reminder of why we must build these weapons of war. Only we can achieve something as magnificent as these ironclads.

Invested : /u/Vivian-M-K (skills in protection), Military Industrial Complex (iron walls count as infrastructure lol)

Results : Gain some ironclads in Lake Erie

CRITICAL FAILURE! The Ironclads caught fire while building them, ravaging the city. Lose all production buildings in Erie, 2 Population, and Vivian has Died!

Plot 4 : #OKaoto

RP : The Seneca settled Kaoto right in the middle of Iroquois clay and Desagondensta was not having it. Those godless drug-dealing heathens had no place in this world, and it was his duty as a man of faith to see them put down. So he started planning an attack on Kaoto. The Elite Defense Force would be useful here, as they were trained to defend the homeland against such incursions. Desagondensta worked on plans day and night then showed them to the leader of the Elite Defense Force. The plans were approved, and it was time to #OKaota. The Elite Defense Force snuck into the city disguised as sketchy drug dealers looking for some product to sell. Once everyone was in, they planted bombs near the military base in the city. After it blew up, the survivors were quickly shot. The defenseless city was ripe for the taking, and its capture would be the first victory in the War on Drugs. The populace would be awed by the Iroquois show of force and renounce their sinful drug habits, and become loyal to God and the Iroquois Nation.

Invested : /u/thesaltiestbanana (skills in industrial planning), Elite Defense Force, 400 faith

Results : Flip Kaoto

Near-Critical Failure! The EDF is discovered immediately, and are massacred.
.Lose the EDF bonus. Faulty Bombmaking also causes Banana to die!

Plots

Plot 1: Reagan Requiem

RP: Ah, the Seneca Cartel. After trying and failing to corrupt the youth of Mikugan with promises of "coolness" and "clout" if they smoked the Devils Lettuce and the drugs that the aforementioned lettuce is a gateway to, the Seneca remain little more than a cartel with a state. They also illegally occupy the rightful Mikugan lands of Sanilac and Huron Counties in the major methamphetamine production centers of "The Thumb", but that's nowhere near as big of a casus belli as their lettuce propaganda.

While the People's Democratic Peacekeeping Self-Defense Force of Mikugan is already the greatest army in the world (not numerically, but in spirit and discipline inspired from the encouraging words of Miku), reclaiming the Meth Belt would be a lot easier if the SDF was closer and also a bit larger.

With the blessing of Caleb, Aria Forte created a ridiculous but well made, Hollandwood-style production film in the traditional Japanese animation style depicting Darren the D.A.R.E. Lion, a mascot representing the good forces of Mikugan Vocaloid Values™ against the evil Marxist liberal lettuce cartel.

Invested: /u/ThyReformer, /u/DigiKitty21,

Result: Darren the D.A.R.E Lion Anime drives up troop recruitment and morale, creating (on big success) or moving (less success) Great War Infantry and Artillery to Kayahsuto'ke and Chenussi. Preferably with GWI near the cities and Artillery within range but not blocking the front lines.

Success! Move units. Also, Darren is pleased with your tribute to him.

Plot 2: Utrecht 2: Electric Boogaloo

RP: The Defense Minister Caleb Forte would much rather carry a chainsaw himself to the frontlines, but realizes a bit of trickery and strategy is required to preserve valuable Mikugan lives. Fortunately the Seneca have made a grave error. In order to maximize productive efficiency, they have placed major methamphetamine production facilities near critical infrastructure in the middle of the factory towns of the Meth Belt.

They've also hired Mikugan workers, the vast majority of which are integrated into the Piapro network, which of course means a retiring Assistant to the Regional Manager (a Mr. Walter White Shrute, 3 children, social credit of 120) happened to upload his consciousness. Lots of fun, classified information about meth production, security details, and passwords is written down, and a quick "in-and-out" style operation is conducted to mess up the production process.

His agents far away by the time the fireworks start, the world's largest trailer parks are simultaneously obliterated by one of the world's largest non-nuclear explosions.

Invested: /u/marcuszodiak1,

Result: Kayahsuto'ke and Chenussio and Seneca units in the area (if there are any) are damaged (0 health preferable). If there's a crit success put fallout over Seneca's core from meth dust or something.

Great Success! Seneca units in the area are destroyed, though no Meth Dust appears.

Plot 3: Gib Monies

RP: So it turns out Walter W. Shrute was a native of Byblos. The small city state was also rightful Mikugan land, a fishing town founded by a bunch of hippie degenerate drug users to try and "escape" the "oppressive regime".

For too long the city of Byblos has resisted Mikugan efforts at reconciliation, and now that they're undermining national security by sending their people out to manufacture meth (and probably the Devil's Lettuce as well), something had to be done.

Tyler Forte, the buff intelligence minister, garnered feared looks of fear from the people of Byblos, clearly scared that he was gonna take their drugs or something. Standing in the town square, he announced that the entire town would be tried for murder due to contributing to the deaths of thousands of young Mikuganders from marijuana overdoes if they did not agree to a mutually beneficial security agreement.

Invested: /u/Sandbankshark, /u/Frodo0201,

Result: Byblos becomes a Special Administrative Region of Mikugan, gibbing PPG and allowing us to annex them later after a part or two.

Partial Success. Byblos will pay tribute to you, but remains independent.

Plot 4: Uh oh we drained a lake

RP: Do you have any idea how much money someone can make from lake water? It's unbelievable! It's like, top dollar material! Anyways, the Piapro network is encouraging people to be completely online, so why do we need lakes anyways? Huh? Tell me why we would even need a dumb old lake!

Anyways, that may or may not be why Lake Erie is empty.

Invested: /u/OfBleedingRoses,

Result: Drain Lake Erie.

Failure. Rose has the genius idea to dry and drink the entire lake. It leaves her with nothing but a tummy ache. Rose is now injured, and has an increased chance of dying next part.

PLOTS

Plot 1: Alcohol in the North

RP: Ojistah had a problem. She had been running a small operation to produce alcohol around the great lakes, but no one was biting or buying her alcohol. She needed a new plan and structure, or it would go nowhere. After a lot of thought, she hatched a plan to move into the untapped market of Canada, and set up a distribution network there. It was tricky to set up, but by sinking a bit of cash, she was able to get a location running in Canada, and began hiring distributors on the promise they'd get a cut of everything sold. She still wasn't expecting much, but she was surprised as her hold of the market grew stronger and stronger. Soon, she was the prime distributor of alcohol in Canada.

[REDACTED]Invested : 1PPG, 2AP, /u/apple-dough - Ojistah Sahanatien, /u/ThatOneNarcissist - Skawennati Red Leaf [/REDACTED]

Results: There are no results here. I dunno what you want me to do. Auto Failed.

Plot 2: Cap

RP: In the capital of our great nation, we now erect a statue of one of the most brilliant minds of history. George Remus, a bootlegger and lawyer. His accomplishments are valued highly by the government and we raise our flag to him. So, we have acquired many different distilleries and corporations in order to mass produce alcohol. The private companies will sell based on how we decide them to.

[REDACTED]Invested: 2AP, /u/LynnWin - Kaniehtiio Sahanatien, /u/CelestialDalek - Dadgayadoh Kanónhsase [/REDACTED]

Results: The state corporatist government strengthens, giving bonuses to plots involving government influence. Also we built a shrine to George Remus.

CRITICAL FAILURE! The ghost of George Remus has alerted Darren...

Dear god...

He's coming.

Oh my god.

Darren has single handedly destroyed your entire drug smuggling ring. All previous bonuses have been removed, and all new drug plots have a 50% chance to fail instantly, killing all those involved. Darren is in charge now. May god help your souls.

Kaniehtiio and Dadgayadoh have been taken away by Darren, never to be seen again. For all intents and purposes, they have Died!

Plot 3: Nya

RP: The warehouse was, though quite a large building, cramped inside with equipment and goods. Baxter never understood how his partner had been able to work under these conditions. Most of the time he wondered how she was able to get anything done at all. Yet, his pestered pondering didn't matter, as she was a skilled chemist. He just hoped that she wouldn't berate him with cat nonsense as he tried to explain that they needed to do a conversion. It wasn't long until he reached her. "hey Nikan,I uh,I got some news" Nyanwenna, who was facing the other way, jumped in surprise then turned around "OMG BWAXTER :D" her face lit up in excitement "It's bween sooooooo long swince we lwast spwoke, I almwost forgwot how cuuuuute you are, uwu". Baxter had a face of slight disgust mixed with great annoyance, and simply responded with "any way, bawss says that we have to switch from nahcotics to beah. something about a guy named dahr'n oh some shit like that. how fast can you get this equipment out of heeuuh and get a brewery stahted" Nyanwenna straightened up and smiled "Ooooooo" she swirled around, clicked her fingers, then winked "You pwicked the right kwitten for the jwob! Jacob!!!" One of the security guards in the corner walked slowly over, a look of fear in his eyes "Yes Miss?"

Nyanwenna glared at him smugly "I nweed u and your fwends to help cute Bwaxter here mwove all the dwuggy wuggies out and repwace them with alcohol, you have 10 mwinutes, pwease don't take any longer, you saw what hwappened to the last guy" Jacob gulped "y... yes miss" and he shuffled off to get to work. Baxter stops him for a moment and speaks. "if any one named dahr'n asks what you ah doing with this stuff, tell him that you ah cleaning out a medical warehouse and transpawting it to be propahly disposed. Got it?" the security guard nods with a bead of sweat falling down his brow as Nyanwenna motions her hands towards him like a cat.

[REDACTED]Invested: 1PPG, 2AP, /u/Retosius - Baxter "Kaniehtiio" Boston, /u/Denzien2 - Nyanwenna Meowers (Nikanwenna Meyers)[/REDACTED]

Results: Alcohol we sell becomes more addictive due to new ingredients.

Failure. However, you manage to escape Darren and live another day. He will not make that mistake twice.

PLOTS

Plot 1 : If you build it, they will come

RP: Matt Campbell had finally done it. He had won another national championship, extending his winning streak to 69 games (in playoff games, his winning streak in all games was much longer, he hadn't lost one of those in donkey years). Such a Nice milestone needed to be commemorated, so the boosters all decided to sell their GME stocks and bitcoins (which had gone well past the moon at this point and were headed towards Mars) in order to fund a giant statue of Matt Campbell. The statue cost more than the yearly GDP of Iowa (outside of Iowa State University athletics which made most of Iowa's GDP to be fair) but the boosters all thought it was well worth it.

On the playbook in Campbell's pants was the following poem, a new slogan for the Cyclones:

Give me your high schoolers, your juco players,
Your grad transfers yearning to breathe free,
The five stars of your teeming shore.
Send these, the croots, tempest-tost to me,
I lift my lamp beside the golden door!

(First picture is credit to Tom, second to Darren008, aka igloo on Texas a&m risk discord)

Invested : /u/Sup3rtom2000 + his skills in schmoozing and making slogans; 250 Gold.

Results : Build the Statue of Liberty at Jack Trice Stadium

Also, give /u/Sup3rtom2000 skills in infrastructure.

Partial Success. Statue is gained, but no skills are rewarded.

Plot 2 : Gridiron Diaries, Page Three

RP : Natasha Novak had never really been a believer in the homespun wisdom of sayings like "if at first you don't succeed, try again" and "third time's the charm", unlike seemingly the entire rest of Iowa State. Thus, she was thoroughly unsurprised when her second recruiting mission to Prague met with no better results than her first, though it had at least been a learning experience. Just as unsurprising was that Athletic Director Jamie Pollard had then sent Natasha off at the head of yet another delegation to foreign lands. In this case, though, she was headed further north to commiserate with Iowa State's friends, the Anishinaabe. Her official objective there was to renegotiate the two nations' border treaty, after even the Anishinaabe seemed to think the gee-shucks team Pollard previously sent there was unnecessarily conciliatory. Natasha's delegation met with success in this goal, but that was merely the only official reason she was there.

The Cyclones had a real winning streak going on the field, but it was barely enough to pay off Iowa State's operating expenses because the higher-ups kept spending most of the profits on big-ticket projects. In contrast, the Anishinaabe thrived thanks to the efficiency of their state-controlled economy. Fortunately, Pollard & co had managed to delegate a portion of Iowa State's annual budget towards Natasha's own big-ticket project, though only after her painstaking efforts to convince them of its value - and the value of working with her ambitions instead of firing her on the spot. Image control had been as crucial there as it would be with the Anishinaabe, since so many men were inclined to view a smartly-dressed, well-spoken woman who wasn't also naturally homey and charismatic with suspicion, or even as a threat. Of course, Natasha would also make sure to grease some palms when conversing with the government officials behind the wildly successful collectivization of the Anishinaabe economy. Their lessons in stimulating trade would in turn prove handy if applied in modified forms to suit Iowa State's free market.

Invested : /u/MetalmindStats + their skills in bribery; 250 Gold.

Results : Adopt as many Commerce policies as possible, prioritized in the following order:
opener > Wagon Trains > Mercenary Army > Mercantilism > Entrepreneurship >
Protectionism

Also, give /u/MetalmindStats skills in image control.

Success. Commerce Gibbed

Plot 3 : gib social policies mega

RP : The new bigly statue of Matt Campbell overlooking Jack Trice gave both Seneca Wallace and Joel Lanning a funny sort of feeling. It's kinda like the feeling when you have a "don't tread on me" flag but still like it when the police tread on someone else. You like it when your state ignores federal power grid regulations since your state's power grid doesn't cross state lines, but you also like it when your state sues another state because your state doesn't like that state's voting laws. Joel and Seneca realized this feeling is the same thing every freedom-loving, gun-toting, commie-hating American felt, liberty. And so, thanks to the giant statue watching over their every move, they started to follow the policy of liberty.

Invested : /u/Mautamu + their skills in impressing customers and doing what Matt Campbell wants; /u/invertthatveer + their skills in doing what Matt Campbell wants.

Results : Complete Liberty tree (note, we have the opener and a policy already so this is plotting for 4 social policies, not 6 so should have a DC  $\frac{2}{3}$  as high according to quick maffs)

Also, give /u/Mautamu and /u/invertthatveer skills in believing in a contradicting ideology.

Failure. No Policies gibbed smh.

Plot 4 : Actually Helping Farmers

RP : Grasslands are basically just fields right? And most of the land around the great lakes are grassland tiles so basically just fields. Best use for fields is to turn them into football fields (second best is to turn them into farms). Unfortunately most of the landed couldn't be football fields because the inferior grass outside of Iowa wasn't suited for football, and so the land needed to be turned into farms. There was quite a bit of land that needed to be turned into farms. Connor Assalley was a marketing and supply chain management major, and of course a Iowa State football sex god, and so was uniquely suited for this role. He fundraised using his sex god prowess and impressed customers if you know what I mean ;) then using the funds he had raised, he organized the supply chain in order to convert all the grassland into farms (and some hills into mines or whatever too, he's just that good).

Invested : /u/carsausage + their skills in impressing customers and being a sex god.

Results : Plant farms on all flat, featureless, and resourceless tiles owned by Iowa State. On great success, also plant mines on all hilly and resourceless tiles owned by Iowa State

Also, give /u/carsausage skills in farming.

Failure. When Connor hears about fertilizing the field, he believes that he needs to have sex with the ground. He has sex with every single tile owned by Iowa State. That's a pretty good achievement, but it doesn't give you farms.

PLOTS

Plot 1 Meet the people of Panama

RP: Although the world is a community, and we're working hard together in order to get things done, there were a number of selfish people living in the city state of Panama City. They demanded the gold earned by the blood and sweat of the good citizens of our confederation to go into their coffers! It was unbelievable. In order for the Order to prosper, everyone needs to get along and ensure things go smoothly.

The One Who Sees Into the Beyond went to Panama City again, this time with a crew of the most industrial people of the nation. They went about on a propaganda mission in order to display what good, hardworking, cooperative people could accomplish. This would prove to be an effective way to shame the leadership of the city state into greater cooperation with demanding exorbitant sums of money.

And should the leaders not be able to look past their greed by themselves, the people of Panama City will gladly encourage them and bring the nobles to their needs and compel cooperation once they saw how well their fellow working-class people from Anishinaabe were faring under the orderly and proper conduct of a government that cares for its citizens.

Invested: u/EndlessVoid0, 1 Worker

Result: Solidify Panama City as an allied city-state

Success. Panama City is now officially allied to you.

Plot 2 Eagle spirit

RP: The eagle is no longer the only bird in the sky. Man too, learning from the animals, may use his cunning to grow wings and propel himself to the skies. Iowa State has figured it out, and we may learn it from them! (Where have I seen this before?)

Apparently one need not form feathers himself, but with sufficient force, even a heavy metal wing can lift you up. Something our scientists were well aware of! This force can only be found in the newly utilized refined oil that we've been developing in our territory. It's a good thing we've been using this oil for some time now! Using these resources the engines that use them can generate enough wind to give liftoff. Something that's been tried and tested by our capable engineers, so this should be a walk in the park.

The man who is most in tune with the spirits of the air has been delegated for visiting Iowa State and inquiring about their products and techniques and expertise. Bantha they Bald took the working assistance that he was assigned, and set off for their land. All of the old rail engines had been converted into Replaceable Parts, and those could be put to ready use in order to remaster Flight. Let us soar in the wind like eagles!

Invested: u/bantha-food, 1 Worker, 1 PPF

Result: "Steal" Flight technology from Iowa State

CRITICAL SUCCESS! You not only gain flight, but you manage to gain 3 great war bombers in your capital. Bantha can also fly now. He is a bird.

Plot 3 A Golden Dawn

RP: Sea-Sea's expertise in handling the wide open waters meant that he was a very capable leader when it came to coordinating commerce. All of his experience in setting up the factories and maritime infrastructure leant itself very powerfully to developing trading networks.

After the tragedy of the shipwrecks off the coast of Mackinaw, the Central Planning Committee of the Anishinaabe tasked him with overseeing the trading networks of the nation personally. It was his task to ensure that the ships and caravans that the nation sent out were not lost. To that end, he developed new ways of handling the commercial elements of the nation.

Several ships were procured from the shipyards of Iowa State in order to ensure that the fleets were protected. The marines of the fleet could prove useful as mercenary armies should the need arise. Beyond that, Sea-Sea encouraged that the factories of the nation were producing goods that would ensure that imports weren't needed, and that the excess could be shipped to the other nations, adopting a mercantilist mindset. To ease the exchange of goods moving outward, wagon trains were set up in order to ensure that caravans moved with maximum efficiency.

In cases where there was too severe of competition between the nation's industrial sector and other nations, several protectionist policies were implemented to promote the Entrepreneurial spirit inherent to those who follow the great Spirits of the North.

Invested: 1 Great Admiral, /u/Canadian_Christian

Result: Open and gain policies in Commerce tree, since that's what all the cool kids are doing these days

Partial Success. You are able to open Commerce and gain half of the policies.

Plot 4 Thar She Blows

RP: The great settlement of the far north meant that an influx of ports had sprung up along Lake Superior. This presented some challenges to the planning committee. There were goods that were piling up just north of Michilimackinac and west of Mooniyaang that the merchants and coordination specialists were having difficulty getting into the cities. Likewise, all of the city planners and industrial workers and settlers moving to the north were struggling to get there.

Being a maritime nation, the solution was a simple one. The river near Mooniyaang already was wide and deep enough for the vast waters of Lake Superior to pass through to Lake Huron. All that was needed were for some workers to survey the depths and ensure that where it was too rocky or shallow, it was blasted clear. That way ships could easily sail between Lake Superior and Lake Huron. Charges of Dynamite were procured from the military bombardment committee, and the workers set about their task, as good industrial people do. In short order, the river was able to handle the ships.

Invested: 1 AP, 1 Worker, 1 Artillery

Result: Widen the river through at Ste. St. Marie so that our ships can pass from Lake Superior to Lake Huron and vice versa (in-game, change 2 grassland tiles to 2 coast tiles).

Success.
