Dear Prospective and Current Math and Applied Math Majors,

In light of the College of Letters and Science's recent extension of the Pass/No Pass late change of class schedule deadline to 11:59 p.m. PT this Sunday, December 11, 2022, the Math Department is adjusting its policies for the Fall 2022 semester as follows:

For Intended Math and Applied Math Majors

Intended Math and Applied Math Majors may use P grades from required lower-division courses taken in Fall 2022 to declare the major. Students wishing to declare the major with upper-division courses should have a grade point average of at least 2.0 from those courses completed at the time of declaration.

For Current Math and Applied Math Majors Graduating in F22, Sp23, and Su23

Math and Applied Math Majors graduating in Fall 2022, Spring 2023, and Summer 2023 may use P grades from Fall 2022 to satisfy major requirements. Students are still required to take at least 2 upper division courses for a letter grade, and maintain a minimum upper division major GPA of 2.0 as well as an overall major GPA of 2.0.

For Current Math Minors Graduating in F22, Sp23, and Su23

Math Minors graduating in Fall 2022, Spring 2023, and Summer 2023 may use P grades from Fall 2022 to satisfy minor requirements. Students are still required to take at least 1 upper division course for a letter grade, and maintain a minimum upper division minor GPA of 2.0 as well as an overall minor GPA of 2.0.

Before making a decision to change your grading option to P/NP, please carefully review L&S's guidance on the Fall 2022 Late Grading Option Change Modification. L&S has created an FAQ on this policy that will help you make an informed decision on your individual circumstances. Please feel free to make an appointment with our Major Advisors should you wish to discuss the P/NP option further. L&S Advising also has a Virtual Front Desk that you can use to ask quick questions regarding this policy.

We hope this change helps to provide options for support during this stressful time. Sending best wishes for finals.

Sincerely,
The UG Advising Team
