Donations

Preamble

My channel is currently not monetised, this is mostly due to legal reasons in my country which would ultimately mean I would either have to publicly show my full name and address or register a company under my name which would be a whole other process.

Donating Steam items is entirely possible however since it is basically just trading virtual items under a certain threshold.

This document serves to keep track of all the donations received throughout the years of the channel's existence, sorted by the date it has been received (newest to oldest) in order to honor them - as well as showing you how to donate.

New starting from 15th June 2020: If you are on my Discord Server and send me your account name + tag in the trade offer, I will gladly give you a “Donator” role including access to a special donators only chat room if you donate a minimum of items worth $0.50 as of the date of sending. I will not put anything else such as previews or videos behind a paywall. If you donated previously, please message me on Discord.

How to Donate

The only way to donate to me is via Steam Trade Offers. The following link will open a window that lets you select which items you want to donate to me. Of course all of this is voluntary but greatly appreciated.

After accepting your trade offer, I will update the Donation History as soon as possible. By donating, you agree to be added onto this list unless you say otherwise. Steam names will be written down as per day of writing and will not be updated after that. The names do link to the steam profile though. Donations will also be shown at the end of upcoming videos. Note that I will basically accept everything except crates. Crates don't have any value and just clutter up the inventory. If you want to get rid of crates, I suggest you use the Scrap.tf Incinerator.
