

Professional Development Offerings

With over 25 years of teaching experience and more than 70 national and international speaking engagements, I design and lead professional development that equips educators, schools, and cultural institutions to better serve diverse learners. My workshops are customized for each community, fostering creativity, accessibility, and equity.

I recognize that budgets vary widely across institutions. While these rates reflect the scope of preparation, customization, and expertise I bring, I am committed to working with schools and organizations to find solutions that fit within their financial capacity whenever possible.
