Subject Line: I left my job and won at life

Every fiber within my being was terrified the day I left my job.

For two years I held a steady job with benefits, overtime, and weekly paychecks.

In spite of all this, I never felt complete and totally satisfied with the path I had chosen.

I was never truly happy with living paycheck to paycheck.

I had two paths in front of me, one of which was led by fear and the other of desire for more.

Instead of asking myself “where will I go”? I chose to chase my desire.

So I left.

I have never been more financially free than now.

I have Jason Killer to thank for that.
