

Question: Why should all utilities be privatised?

The private sector should provide these services at a cost, because the quality of service and output is much greater, due to the competitive profit-seeking incentive. If utility services are free, then they will be rationed and shortages will be the inevitable result.