

Write your paragraph here:

Both passages portray an important message that is crucial for the succession of the world. Readers can learn that no man should stand alone and everybody needs support from somewhere or something. In order for the world to improve, people need to support and protect one another. "Shoulders," by Naomi Shihab Nye, and "Baby on the Beach," by Alix Kates Shulman, exhibit this important message through symbolism, metaphors, setting, point of view, simile and repetition.