MOJCL State Convention:

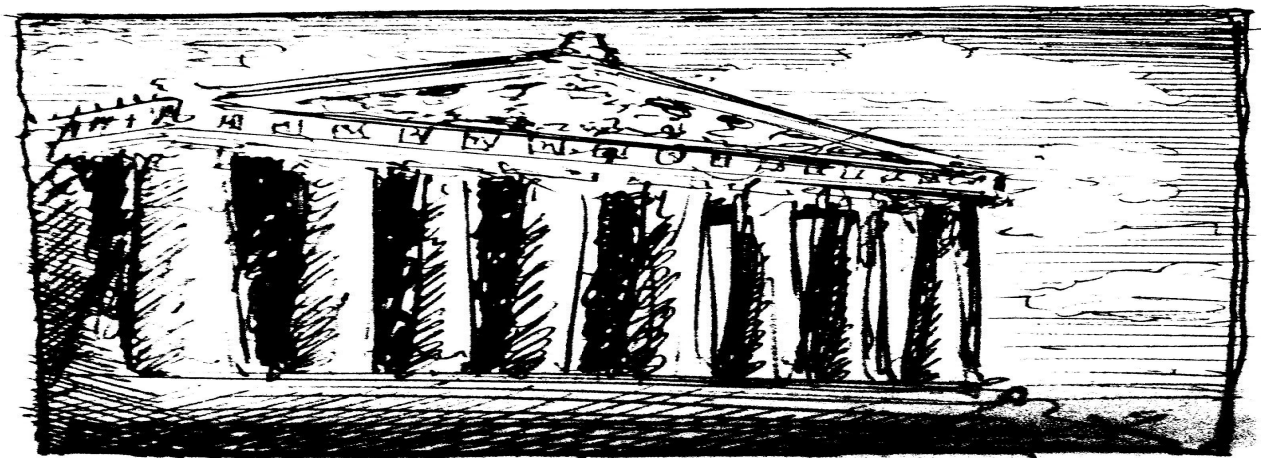

April 15 - 16, 2016

MOJCL state convention is this week, and many events are taking place. Friday night, the ever popular Romecoming will take place, as well as open certamen, impromptu art, and many other competitions. Romecoming will feature a scavenger hunt, a sing-off, and a myth re-enactment.

Saturday, costume contests and art work will be judged. Colloquia's will begin in the afternoon. Presenters include Professor Norgard from Truman State University and Mr. Gamal Castile. Throughout the weekend, schools will be judged on a multitude of items to win the spirit award. The points are distributed on the chart below.

Letter from the editor;

Salve! I hope you all are as excited as I am for MOJCL convention. Being my last convention, I am also quite sad to see it all go. Over the years I have formed bonds with not only the students that attend, but also the teachers. Being an officer this year has allowed me to be even more involved, and am ever grateful for the opportunity. It has been an honor serving my term and working with the other officers. They have been kind and hardworking, and have grown to be friends. I truly appreciate all that MOJCL has taught me, and I would encourage everyone to run for office.
