

" Lets see the difference a new generation can make. "

General Info! (PUBLIC)

Name: Clover Mckay	Sexuality: Lesbian
Age: 15	Gender: Female
Height: 5'1"	Pronouns: She/Her

Quirk

» Name: Lightning Rod

» Description: Clover can absorb electricity from most sources. This increases her energy, speed and reaction speed.

» Strength: Increase speed, energy and reaction speed.

» Drawbacks: She uses this energy very quickly, leading to her body exhausting itself faster. Too much absorption can lead to intense burning (Around 1000 Volts) and she has little control over how much she actually takes in. The only way she can actually release this is by running around or other physical activity. Electricity also isn't always available. Her speed peaks at around 200 mph and she can't exactly control that kind of speed.

Hero Name Undecided.

» Alias: N/A

» Known for?: Not much just yet. Though despite being on the hero course shes known for her ability to invent and create support gear.

» Solo/group: Solo as of now.

» Costume description:

This is a ref used for a dnd campaign i'm in. The robotic arm is not a part of her costume for the context of this submission. Her age is also wrong, ignore that. The gauntlet on her hand is a piece of support gear I will eventually develop into her character, I'm still working on the details however.

Creds: Me ^^

Personal Info! (PRIVATE)

Traits

Positive:

- Smart,
- Inventive,
- Creative,
- Social.

Neutral:

- Loud,
- Ambivert,
- Eccentric.

Negative:

" Uh.. whaddya mean we gotta wake up early? I'm sure i can sleep in. Whats the worst that can happen? "

Backstory: Clover was born into a pretty tough beginning. A home with very little. Not enough money to keep the heating on. Meals were cheap. And most significantly. She had very little in terms of a paternal figure in her life. Her father left weeks before her birth and her mother was working most of the time. She was born in Japan. While living in Japan she went between the United Kingdom and

- Emotionally Vulnerable,
  - Socially awkward,
  - Bad with communication /Teamwork.
-

Japan often. Her given name being Clover and "Kurobaa" simply being a direct translation of the word. Her English name took priority in life due to it being picked out by her brother whom she has a great love for.

Clover was typically left alone with her older brother Harvey Mckay when it came to surviving.

Age 4.

Clovers early childhood was a simple one. She sat by her television. A brand new one at that! A little box, the screen was small, the audio was crackly on occasion which really hurt her ears but.. whatever. It played her silly cartoons.

Age 10.

Turning ten changed a lot. By this point her older brother was fourteen and mature enough to make food, clean and generally capable enough to take care of the two of them.

Clover was a little sad about this, it just meant mother would be away more. But, it also meant that there'd be more money for birthday gifts.

Around this time, her quirk was discovered! She was electrocuted by some loose wires while trying to get her stupid little tv to turn back on after suddenly breaking. And well.. She just.. Sat there. Confused. No pain, just a lot of energy and.. Weirdly hungry?

Age 11.

Enough about her home life however. Let's talk about her life outside of home. She was a pretty smart kid! She picked up on stuff in school pretty quick. She loved her IT classes. Having an instant fascination with computers and technology. This made her happy. Socially she was lacking. She didn't have any real friends. Her teacher was nice though. They would chat on her lunch break.

Age 13.

During this time Clover was fascinated by the idea of heroes. They seemed so cool. So loved by the people. Strong too!

She would sit around on her old computer, watching videos of heroes just.. Doing hero things! She then spent time doing something.. Kinda dangerous. Tinkering with open wires. Absorbing electricity and.. Slowly but surely building an intolerance to its negative effects. Nothing huge. She cant take too much but. She's getting better!

Age 14.

Turning fourteen was nice. Harvey picked up the guitar. Listening to him was fun, he was getting good fast, something about becoming an ultimate musician?

She got an MP3 player from him. Filled with songs he loved when he was her age. It made her happy. In combination with her headphones it made those overwhelming moments a little easier.

Age 15.

And.. finally. As she turned 15. She applied to join the U.A high hero course. To become one of the beloved Heroes she idolized so much over the last couple years.

Personality

» General personality: She's a social butterfly, wanting to make friends with people and make sure everyone is getting along! However struggling a lot with that since she's, well, dumb.

She struggles socially but it doesn't stop her from being a pretty bright kiddo who just live, laughs and loves her way through life despite being mostly alone-

Most things go over her head. She's a bit socially stupid at times, jokes and similar remarks going over her head. This doesn't make her unintelligent. She has her book smarts to keep her going. She's a strategist, she loves statistics and generally just. Loves learning.

» Likes: Space, Technology, Skating, Puzzles, Burgers, Sleeping.

» Dislikes: Nighttime, Winter, Walking

» Weaknesses: Strength is her main issue, though her inability to work as a team due to various factors is also a huge weakness of hers.

Affiliations

» Hero/Villain/Vigilante/Civilian/: Hero

» Affiliation: UA

Class

» Class: 1-C

(THIS IS NOT MY ART, A FRIEND DID THIS.)