Reflection

The group I worked with was a productive and easy going group of people. I had doubts at first but everyone did what they needed to. Although we didn't finish on time, everyone still did their work and kept consistent. My role was just to help people and guide them to where they needed to go and help interpret what they didn't understand. Example, Adriana, was very confused when she first started out in our group. She seen I had the idea of the project down pact. She asked for helped and asked which website we were on and how to work the website. I simply walked her through the website; how to insert videos, how to insert a text, and a picture. I also explained how the project and the document was supposed to go. I was everyone's "go-to" person.
