

Story: time traveller to stop a war

He materialized in a dark alley . The time-traveling device attached to his wrist flashed a holographic *2014* in bright blue as it beeped , signaling a successful journey through time .
<newline> <newline> He was the first . Years had been spent and lives had been lost in attempts to master time travel , and he was the first person to finally survive while ending up in the correct time period : 2000 years in the past . <newline> <newline> He came from a society that had been built upon what could only be called an advanced and evolved form of socialism . His people could travel to other galaxies , but no one in the Inter-Galactic Order had yet conquered travel through time . <newline> <newline> Earth had won the time race . <newline> <newline> Professor Davis Muhammad stepped out of the alley into an overcast day with thousands of people passing by . No one noticed him . They all walked along staring at their phones like drones . <newline> <newline> The phones , Davis knew about . The fossils of the various models had become common artifacts in history museums . But the their owners had him flabbergasted , they were nothing like he had expected . He was slightly disappointed . <newline> <newline> Based on the knowledge of his time , he had expected to find people nearing a civil war . As far as he could tell , there was no obvious signs of `` Republicans " and `` Democrats " . The archaic footage from what was believed to be news stations had been wrong . <newline> <newline> As he walked down the street , he saw no signs of conflict among the people of the 21st century . He saw citizens in coffee houses on their computers and chatting peacefully with each other . He saw couples walking dogs and babies in strollers . He saw people talking business with each other . These people were far more peaceful than believed . <newline> <newline> As he realized this , his disappointment faded as he realized the discoveries he was about to make . Yes , these people were making their way toward the computerized implants of his time , but the peacefulness almost resembled those of his people . <newline> <newline> However , these were all side-notes to the purpose of his quest . He had come to find one single aspect of the personalities of these people . <newline> <newline> He had to find where they kept the shrines to the cats .

Story: David and Claire

David and Claire agreed to meet on the corner of 53rd and 10th . <newline> <newline> Their favorite little cafe , tucked away beneath all grime of the city . David was nervous , for today was the day he had been anxious about all year . He carried the small box in his left pocket , having spent three months salary just the day before . <newline> <newline> Claire was nervous , too . Her doctor had just confirmed the tests . She let a timid smile escape her lips , and wondered in amusement if her stomach had begun to grow enough that David would catch on right away . <newline> <newline> The two saw each other coming from opposite ends of the empty street . He smiled . She smiled . The two embraced , holding each other for a long time . David opened the door for her , and the two entered the barren cafe together , sitting down at their usual table . <newline> <newline> Before David could get a word in , Claire put a small piece of paper on the table . David picked it up , his eyes scanning from top to bottom . His face lit up , and Claire could see tears swelling in his eyes . <newline> <newline> `` Twins ? " he asked . <newline> <newline> Claire smiled , her eyes growing wet as well . She felt her body grow warm , and noticed the flow of sunlight grow brighter and brighter . <newline> <newline> David looked through the window of the empty , forgotten cafe . He let out a long , defeated sigh . A sigh that echoed the sound of a future that would never be . He reached in to his pocket , opening the small box . Claire 's eyes twinkled in the sunlight , and she removed the delicate ring from his hands , placing it over her own ring finger . <newline> <newline> `` It 's beautiful , " she said in awe . The heat grew , and she could feel it burning at her skin . She looked into David 's eyes one last time , and he took her by the hands . Tears streamed down his face , and he gently kissed Claire 's hand . <newline> <newline> As the Sun gave way to the stars , and the Earth gave way to the Sun , David and Claire smiled . Together , they said the last words that the universe would ever hear . <newline> <newline> `` I love you . " <newline> <newline> And in that moment , they were at peace .

I am the young wise dragon . I burn things that in my wisdom I determine need burning . Who are you , horsey ? <newline> <newline> `` I am the unicorn . I glitter . " <newline> <newline> Do you do anything else . <newline> <newline> `` I glitter all the time . " <newline> <newline> Yes , but what sort of work do you do ? <newline> <newline> `` I am glittering . What do you do ? " <newline> <newline> I already said . I burn things that deserve it . Do you deserve it ?
<newline> <newline> `` Do I deserve a burning ? Heavens no ! I glitter and tell the world to glitter . It 's a full time job . " <newline> <newline> You tell people to glitter ? <newline> <newline> `` Yes . All day long . More glitter . More glitter ! " <newline> <newline> I think you should stop terrorizing people with this glitter nonsense . They all have important work to do .
They should n't be wasting all this time glittering . <newline> <newline> `` It 's harmless . The glitterati love me . " <newline> <newline> Oh ? Some guild devoted to glitter I suppose .
<newline> <newline> `` Naturally . " <newline> <newline> I 'm sorry to have to do this .
<newline> <newline> `` Sorry ? " <newline> <newline> I 'm going to have to ask you to burn .
<newline> <newline> `` To burn ? Me ? Sparklecorn the Great can not burn . I am the master of glitter . The soul of the glitterati . I will not burn . " <newline> <newline> Everything burns .
