

Separate (Police Piccadilly)

Translyrics by Caity Cat

I kept my mouth shut, but something's amiss the climax felt forced, like we're both reading off scripts and if we continue with no sincerity you know that there will be a penalty

Background noise turns to an inevitable song with - arrogant - transience
An onslaught of chaos creates what is simply a - ridiculous - ambience

Let's fall in, with no delay
We'll both sway, and have our way

Within the deepest depths of you, your heart slowly froze but it starts to melt, it thaws and grows
But even if I blink and look back, nothing would change, I suppose Remaining the same from open to close
It's capricious, the way that time flows
Well, do you get me?
Can I finally set you free?

We created this world thoughtlessly "Loneliness" is as good an excuse as any We both really should just admit to keep this up is a hell of a crime to commit

Don't act like you're surprised, there's just nothing negative about it And right now,
A deafening reverb resonates - out from our world - as it - separates

The surface~ ripples, then We'll transcend, our colors blend

Your deeply-rooted envy, why create such a fuss?
You're no stranger to this pattern of distrust
The time we lost is now the bigger half of us
Somehow from the start to the decline

We still shared bright, sparkling times
But you need to let go of me so I can set myself free.

One day I'll be blindsided by the tears, I know

Can't forget the vile conduct in the past Stripped myself of emotions down to the last and swam into an empty space so vast

Within the deepest depths of you, your heart slowly froze but it starts to swell, it just grows and grows
But if I look away and back, nothing would change my woes
Remaining the same from open to close
It's capricious, the way that time flows
Alluring fragility
I'll be forthright as I can be:
Do you get me?
Can I finally set you free?

Fickle as can be...
Nothing new to me...