This source is like a journal because it really breaks down how it all started. I would consider this to be a primary source. The source was really helpful for me because it gave me information that I really didn't even know about. Also, I liked how this source gave me a lot of hyperlinks, a lot of data tables, charts. One thing that really stands out to me is the background research because it has really good information. It also give you nice/understanding examples.
