

Amelia: Hi girl! Let's start off with your poem. I really enjoyed it! I liked how it was unexpected which is always a plus in my book. For your questions, I thought your answers were really entertaining! The one thing I will say is that your appearance did not match with the mood and tone of your answers. The look is giving me more nerdy guy while the answers are more bitchy gay? But that's just me pulling hairs, overall good work in this portion. Your runway is gorgeous! I love this gown, I like the way you sold it on the runway, good work!

Cassandra: Girl... I'm sorry but that comedy routine was not it! I can see you tried with some jokes, but none of them landed. And your questioning portion... girl. I know the character you were going for, but this was not it for me either! I know you were trying to go for that messy racist, but it just... was a bit dark for this challenge? I like your runway, it was a clear reference. Good work on the runway!

Del: Your talent show was fun! I do think going to a lipsync is kinda the easy way out, but a good performance is good nonetheless. For your male drag look, I really like that you didn't just come out in boy clothes, I like how you kinda dragged it up. Your answers to the questions were fun! I liked the direction you went, and I think it was a strong performance. For your runway, I love this! I really like how you went a more creative route, and you definitely stand out in that regard.

Diana: Your talent show was a lipsync. I enjoyed it, but again doing a lipsync is kinda... expected, but you took it to places I did not expect which I enjoyed! Your answers were fun, but a little one note. You had a character, but it's one I've seen many times. Your runway is beautiful! I love the crown, I like the origami flowers I believe they added a nice flair to the overall look

Elle: Yet another lipsync, but I'm not mad at it because you took me there. I liked the song choice, I think it works well with your overall routine. Even though this is just a lipsync, it has all of the elements of a super entertaining performance which is the most important thing in all of this. For your interview, I thought your answers were cute, but some of the answers were just... bleh to me especially the first one. Your runway... bitch this may be my favorite thing I've seen on this sub. This look is absolute perfection. I love how you went with a more out of the box approach. I love the lights, I am a sucker for neon. Ugh I'm gonna kill you for having this idea before I could think of it! Fucking bitch

Sir: That talent show.... Ok... werk? I usually am a fan of softcore porn, but I don't think this is really appropriate for a talent show. There are a lot of elements to this that I find to be a bit.. Implausible? Like the whole beginning portion. Cmon, I know this is all written, but it has to be in the realm of reality. For your interview, it is giving me that one pageant girl who was a hot MESS in her interview portion realness, and I honestly live for it! I thoroughly enjoyed the messiness of it. Good job in that department. For your runway, I do like it. I like the "richest bitch of the wild" kinda look you are going for, but I'm not sure if I like the elements together? I would have lost the coat, but that's more of a matter of personal taste.

Sonya: Sonya Ponya... what's good? Not this performance. This is probably one of the stupidest things I have ever seen. I love it. This performance is something I could see myself watching while high which would cause me to question my life decisions the next day. For some reason, your boy look is giving me 70s living room? I dont know, Im kinda into it? Your interview answers were fun, but really stupid which I think is the theme with this submission. Now, stupid isn't bad, its just dumb, and it makes me chuckle so toot. For your runway, I am SO glad Spongebob made an appearance with those pads! I like the idea behind this look, it's cute, it's unique, it didn't make me want to vomit on first glance. Good.

Willow: Hi! So, I honest to god didn't know you were doing a comedy routine until about halfway through the skit which is not good. This was just a miss for me dear. Maybe I don't know enough about the girls. Maybe I don't know much about the season, but I was left confused for a lot of it. For your interview, girl who the fuck is Charlene and Reginald?! Now, I may be illiterate, but I did not see any sort of explanation behind any of it, so your answers left me a bit... confused. For your runway, I had a very hard time visualizing it, so i don't really know how to critique it?

Aurora: Your stand up had some funny moments, but overall it seemed.. Rushed. There was definitely comedy there, and overall I do enjoy it, I just wish it had a bit more ya know? For your interview, you definitely went with a more serious approach which made it stand out amongst the crowd. I enjoyed your answers overall. Your runway is so glamorous! If I would give a critique, I would say that I would have loved a train on this, but I am a sucker for trains. It is definitely not the most creative look on this stage, but its a good one.

Portia: I adore this talent portion so much! It was unique, it has a personal connection, and it was written in a way where I felt like I was actually there. Ugh toot! Your interview answers destroyed me existence. I loved your first answer so damn much! I have a friend who is from Oklahoma who says that Snow in Oklahoma is actually meth, and your answer reminded me of that, so thank you for that. Your runway was cute, I liked the reference. I love that shade of blue, and I am a sucker for stones, so toot!