

DRAFT Holistic Rubric for Scorers of ELO 7.2

7.2 Students will apply theories and concepts from the social and empirical sciences to analyze human behavior and contemporary social issues.
4—Exceeds Expectations	3—Meets Expectations	2—Near Expectations	1—Below Expectations
Demonstrates a deep and nuanced understanding of key theories and concepts from the social and empirical sciences (e.g., sociology, psychology, economics, political science), effectively applying them to analyze human behavior and contemporary social issues.	Demonstrates a solid understanding of key theories and concepts from the social and empirical sciences, applying them effectively to analyze human behavior and contemporary social issues, though connections between theory and real-world examples may be more general or less fully developed.	Demonstrates a basic understanding of theories and concepts from the social and empirical sciences, but may struggle to apply them effectively to analyze human behavior or contemporary social issues.	Demonstrates little to no understanding of key theories and concepts from the social and empirical sciences, and fails to apply them meaningfully to the analysis of human behavior or contemporary social issues.