ABSTRACT

Background: Write the abstract contents in English here. Follow type and letter size and paragraph format (9pt). Abstract is written in English. Methods: Writing the word Abstract using Cambria 9pt, in italics. The abstract consists of 150-250 words written in one paragraph, containing the essence of the manuscript containing background, research objectives, methods, results, and conclusions. Results: The name of the organism is accompanied by its scientific name. At the end of the extract part included keywords (keywords) as much as 3-3 words arranged in alphabetical order. Conclusions: Early keywords use capital letters. Each keyword is separated by a semi-colon (;)

INTRODUCTION

The body paragraph uses the font type "Cambria" 10pt and is made in a single space with two-column. The minimum number of pages is 4 pages, a maximum of 10 pages, and includes all parts of the manuscript (Abstract, Introduction, Method and Methods, Results, Discussion, Acknowledgments, and References). Citation is written with the type "name and year" with APA style (example: Kurniasih, 2007). If two authors are written both using the symbol "&".

If more than two authors write the name of the first author followed by the word "et al." in italics and put a period and a comma before the year as in the following example: (Maehara et al. 2011). Citation and reference writing is recommended using EndNote, Zotero, or Mendeley.

The introductory part of the scientific article contains an explanation of the background of the problem, objectives, and literature review that is written in a concise, concise, and clear manner regarding the problem under study. The writing of the introductory part is not given a subtitle as in the research report but is written directly after the abstract. References included in the introductory paragraph must be "up to date" and reflect the "state of the art" research.

DISCUSSIONS

Writing is recommended using this template. After editing is done duplicate the template file using the Save As command, and use the naming convention defined by your conference to name your file.

This template is designed so that the author's affiliation is not repeated every time for multiple authors of the same affiliation. Please keep your affiliations as short as possible (for example, do not differentiate between departments of the same organization).

In the discussion, use references with a consistent format as in the introductory paragraph, namely the "name and year" system. The discussion must lead to the results of the research and the language used is standard and not convoluted. The discussion should not repeat or display research results. Use references to support or compare your research results.

CONCLUSIONS

The conclusion is the interpretation of the research results obtained. Use standard language that is easy for readers to understand. Suggestions are not included in the conclusion but in the discussion.

Acknowledgement

Acknowledgments are written if there are sponsors who help or are related to this research. For example, if the research involves other institutions, it may be written here. If it does not involve other agencies or sponsors, the journal does not need to be thanked.
