

I search Paragraph Structure:

Section	Paragraph	Part
Introduction:	1.	Lead – if long, it own paragraph. If short, combine with next paragraph.
	2.	Thesis – statement of paper’s position on topic and three supporting arguments presented without details or examples.
Body	3	Explain First Argument in support of your position
	4	Examples of First Argument
	5	Evidence and details of First Argument
	6	Explain Second Argument in support
	7	Fewer examples and evidence of Second Argument
	8	Explain Third Argument briefly with an important example or detail
	9	Explain the best opposing Argument against your position. Outline an example or important detail.
Conclusion	10	Argument against the opposing argument, responding to the example or detail raised from previous paragraph.
	11	Conclusion – rephrase or use different language to detail the arguments raised and why the position of this paper is well supported
	12	Unanswered questions/Where to go from here – discuss a couple of the major questions not answered this paper AND what areas should covered in the future, possibly from new court cases or scientific discoveries.

References required – 3 books, 5 articles, 13 websites. Substitute out websites if more books or articles are used as references.