Riding Trends:
1. I'm a Momentum Trader because I'm patient and I prefer to predict a trend rather than a reversion.
2. Big picture Oriented because when price chang I don't change my idea of trading and strategy.
3. Strongly Opinionated because when I see a pattern that work specifically for my strategy i stay there with my opinion and I don't change my mind.
4. Passive Trader because I let the money work for me not me working for the money so I enter the trade but until it gets to my TP or SL I let it there.

Time Availability:
As an 18-year-old boy and still going to school my maximum time in a day to spend is 4-5 hours.
Despite the 5-4 hours a day I chose to be a Swing Trader because I like to stay, in a sort of way, in the market and look a the different charts.

Risk Profile:
I've got good (for me) capital (around 5k €).
So for that I'm a Risk Seeking because I've also a decent cashflow…

Cashflow*: sometimes (like 2 to 3 times a month) I get 20/50 € from my parents and I use the system: 50/30/20: 50% for food, 30% to go out, 20% investment (TRW, Trading)

Fluctuation*: I'm thinking of using around 1% of my capital (50 €) and I don't mind if I lose it.

Asset Class:
Stocks trader (momentum stocks) but I also want to try commodities (like gold or oil) in the future.
Underlying trade (trade from IBK) or Futures (for now my main focus is on stocks).
