Frequently Asked Questions

Who is the event for? Anyone! Women, Work & Calling welcomes women and men working in a wide range of roles, who are passionate about using their skills and resources to love God and serve others. Whether you're a solopreneur, managing a corporate team, or volunteering at your kids' school, Women, Work, & Calling will encourage and equip you to expand God's kingdom through your work.

How can I attend? Women, Work, & Calling 2021 is a hybrid in-person and online event. We believe learning happens best when we have a chance to process with others, so we encourage online viewers to consider hosting watch parties with friends. To learn more about hosting a virtual watch party, please read the Watch Party Host Guide.

If you attend in person, solo registrants are welcome, but have you thought of buying a table or half table and splitting the cost between friends?

What do online viewers need to participate? As long as you have a strong internet connection, you'll be able to view the event. You will receive a viewing link/password by email Friday, Oct 22nd and 1 hour before the event starts. Tech support will be available throughout the day if you have trouble logging on.

If you're hosting a watch party, you will need a streaming device that connects your television/projector/laptop to the internet to display the online event content.

Does everyone in my group need a ticket? Yes! Each person will need to purchase their own ticket to access online content, including post-event resources. Attendees will have access to event content through Friday, November 5th. A link to the event replay will be provided in the post-event email.

Can I watch the event later? Yes, a replay of event content will be available through Friday, November 5th. You will receive an email containing a link to the replay on Tuesday, October 26th.
