You need to purchase a license if you want to upload your song to streaming services such as Spotify, Apple Music, and more.

Do I need a license if I'm not earning any money from my song?

Yes! Regardless of whether your song is generating income or not, you still need to obtain a license to upload it to streaming services.

"Free for non-profit" means that you can use the song without making any money from it. So you can upload your song to YouTube and SoundCloud without monetization.

Can others use the beat I've licensed?

What are the differences between the various types of licenses?

What are Stems?

Stems in music production refer to individual audio tracks that are grouped together to make up a whole song. For example, when you purchase a license with stems, the beat will be provided along with separate audio tracks for drums, sample, bass, and so on.

Do I need Stems for my track?

Stems provide more room for creativity for you as the artist. For example, if you want a part of the song to be without drums or if you want to filter the sample at a certain moment in the song, even if boosting a snare, kick, perc, having separate tracks can allow you to do that. Additionally, having stems can enable you or your mix engineer to have a more detailed mixing process, resulting in a better outcome.

What will happen if I go over my streaming limit?

If you go beyond the streaming limit specified in your license, reach out to me at akiraexperience@gmail.com or on instagram @akiraexperience and hit me to upgrade your license. You will only be required to pay the price difference, rather than the entire license fee.

What happens to my song if someone purchases an exclusive license?

If you already have an active license and someone buys the beat exclusively, your license will still remain valid. However, if you have created a song without purchasing a lease and someone buys the exclusive rights, you will not be allowed to upload your song to streaming platforms.

Do you make custom beats?

Can I read the contract before buying a license?

Yes! You can do that by adding a beat to your cart and clicking on REVIEW LICENSE.

Can I split revenue with you instead of buying a license?
