Subject line: How Knock Your Fear Out Cold

When there's a major change in your life, how do you handle it?

Do you embrace it and try to get the best of these new circumstances?

Or do you wait and hope for the change not to overwhelm you?

Be honest with yourself.

You chose the second option, didn't you?

You've been afraid your whole life.

And only YOU can change it.

All Opportunities come with a choice.

You either take them or let them pass by.

It happened to me.

Two years ago, my high school buddy came to me with a proposal to start a company.

I was torn.

Since I graduated college I have been focused on my corporate career.

I could've played it safe and stayed at my comfortable corporate job.

Or I could overcome my fear of the unknown and embrace change instead of avoiding it.

The choice was mine.

Fortunately, I knew that if I stay paralyzed by fear, I won't achieve anything above average.

Right now, I am a multimillionaire.

Also, I reinvented my life.

I'm not backing down from things just because they are new or hard.

And you can do it too.
