TW: SEXUAL ASSAULT, ANIMAL ABUSE/DEATH

I don't usually do these kinds of posts, but I must warn all of you of a dangerous person I used to know. They go by @KiiroShadou, and they're a wannabe up-and-coming v-tuber, but some of you might remember them as DavetheCoolVA/Kokoharuchan, or even the voice actor for Boyfriend in my defunct mod FNF HD. For context, and a bit of backstory, I defended this person back in 2022 for awful things. In 2019, they raped their partner, and when they were 4, they killed a kitten and went into gruesome detail about it. They told this information to cinnacider, my friend who at the time lost trust in me for defending them, while they were dating, and it made them very uncomfortable, leading them to make the call-out post linked in the thread. Both of these were things that I always considered horrible, but I wanted to prove he wasn't like that anymore. It ended up getting me rightfully criticized, and I took a long break from Twitter to figure out why I felt so bad and how to improve myself.

I always thought it was because I got criticized, but now I know it’s because I defended someone who never wanted better for me, and used my clout to cushion their own fall. Nevertheless, in that time I improved my anger issues (which admittedly were a factor at me speaking out the way I did on a thread which was not my place to speak on), and started really getting to see this person I once considered a friend for who they really are. I hope it goes without saying, but as I've said since I first remade this account, I'm sorry for defending such criminal behavior. I thought it was my place to help him become better, and I ignored every sign, and especially you guys, all because of my ego. At the same time though, I would like for people to stop thinking I just defended a random sex offender. This was a friend who I defended out of ignorance to the fact that people have the right to be uncomfortable with someone who’s a literal sex offender and animal murderer, whether they’ve changed or not, and I should have cut them off sooner.

I want to preface that the only reason I found out about this current account was because a friend of mine went to visit old DMs with him on TikTok and found out that he re-branded into a v-tuber; trying to put everything behind himself. We also found his Twitter was linked to his old Twitch account, which we followed a long time ago when he was planning to be a V-Tuber, where he re-branded his name to have his real name in it. This never ended up being fully realized, but he still had to find a use for the account...so he changed his name from it to KiiroShadou.

In that time of early 2022-Mid 2023, however, I also tried to help him stay on the path of reformation, along with a close friend server. As time went on, we realized more and more that he was only getting worse, and eventually we kicked him from our friend group. We all realized that they not only manipulated us into staying with him because he had no one else, but that he'd continue this behavior after leaving.

At multiple points we told him to go to therapy. He went for like a month or so in 2022 but then stopped. It’s crazy, when he was going to therapy was when he was at his best. But then he stopped, and slowly, it all went down hill.

What's even crazier is that he used to criticize cinna for not taking therapy as seriously as they should, yet has the audacity to act like he didn't feel the same way. It's almost like he was projecting onto them. In any case, we'd bring it up to him again last year, and he kept waving it off, using the excuse of being in Japan where people didn't believe in that kind of health work to be as valid as physical health, which sure, I could possibly see that. But this thread proves outright that he had no interest in ever going back anyways.

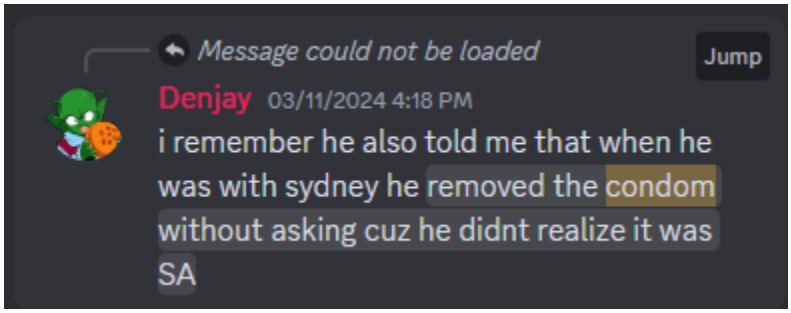

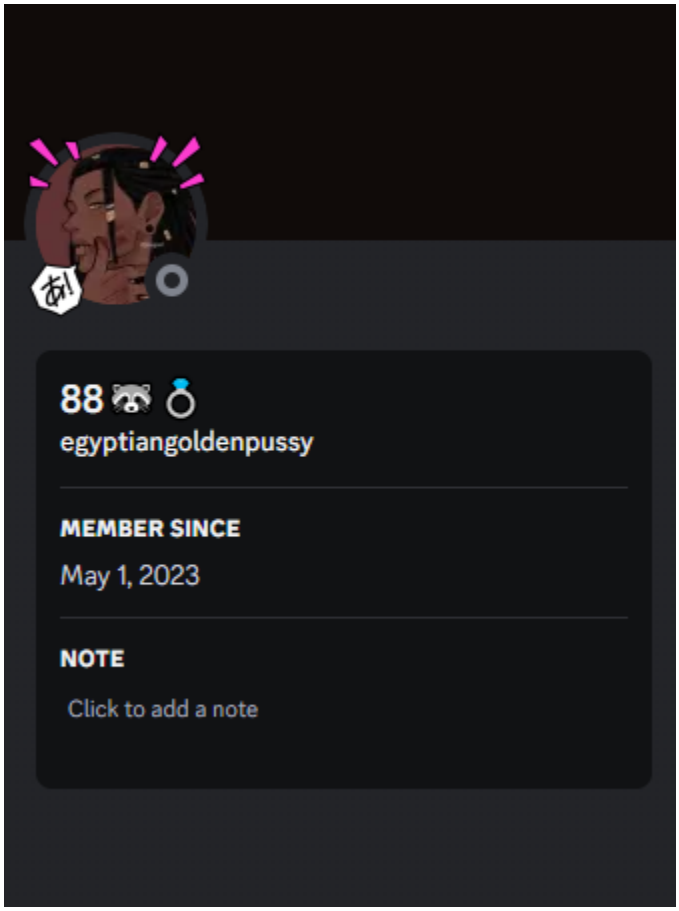

There's more to this thread above and below that basically was him saying that he didn't care if we thought he was damaging himself by pursuing another relationship despite proving he's not mentally stable enough for one with how manipulative he tends to be, and that if we didn't want to deal with it to just cut our losses. This was the final nail in the coffin that led to us kicking him from our server. It sucks that it took so long for us to realize we were being used, but it also led us to learn what signs to look out for in people like this who abuse the forgiving.

In time after we kicked him, we'd learn more about him, like the fact that he was talking to multiple women at one time without any of them being in the know about it, and also sexually assaulting his ex while he was in Japan. With the latter case, we didn't know what exactly happened initially. All he told us was that his ex pressed "fake" charges against him, and that the school promised not to throw him in prison if he just went back home to America. The incident occurred when, while they were having sex, he took off the condom without telling her, and then he came to us saying that he "didn't know he needed consent to take the condom off". I unfortunately don't have proof of him saying those exact words, but I do have this piece of evidence from when he was kicked out of school to avoid the charges, along with a friend talking about what he said many months after he'd been gone from the server:

Every other interaction we've had with him afterwards was him trying to apologize to us on two separate occasions. Each time, though, the apology gained nothing but more and more fluff, and felt like he wasn't actually sorry and willing to improve, and moreso acknowledging what he did so that we could pat him on the back like, "Well, you know what you did wrong and that's ok," probably with the hopes of joining our friend group again. But no, I don't give a fuck about him anymore and I've told him before. This screenshot in particular is after he gave me, saying he wanted to talk to me if possible, after giving a long apology (shown below) that was just filled with a ton of nothing.

The apology in question was sent to us via my friend @Gramgoestorehab on Twitter

Hey guys, hope you all been doin great, this much is true. I know for some who don't have that much beef with me compared to others it was awful of me to up and leave like that and for that I'm sorry. To the specific few who i've done worse, Goose ([redacted]), kenny, [redacted], and [redacted] if she is even there, and [redacted]. i give an extensive apology. I apologize to you kenny, because I know I hated on you, and for a bit i really did hate you. you were right, its weird and fake of me to be all cool with you and mask cool but not let you know my problems, when you angrily came to my dms i shouldve taken that oppertunity to actually properly talk with you instead of instigating and bein all dickish. i get if you hate me, and im not tryna guilt or bullshit you, just was overall fucked up.

the girl from the last screnshot

To [redacted] and in a sense [redacted], sorry for being overly flirtatious and straight up uncomfortable. [redacted] i recognize i wasn't the best person too, i know bro doesn't care as much since he told me but i figured another apology wouldn't hurt for my actions. For [redacted] in particular, I apologize for flirting with you when I should not have. an explanation of my actions I feel would only come out as excuses, so I really am just going to apologize. I appreciate all the time we had watching PSG and Other shows as well as splatoon and stuff. Hope your money situation, and mental health have been doing better as well as its been swinging side to side from my last memory of your problems.

To goose, [redacted], openly probably one of my favorite people in the server (sorry to the rest but also not sorry).
Sorry for being a snake to you man, When we became close in the few months we did I really did appreciate all of that time. Even now i do miss you a bunch because you're funny, talented, a goober, and a little bit dumb in a good way. When i flirted with [redacted] behind your back i want you to know that I stopped after a certain period of time out of respect for you, i was foolish to plan anything behind your back and Furthermore it was terrible of me as a bro or homie to do anything like that to someone who faces just as much back lash as you. our friendship much like the others kenny and more, were genuine.

To [redacted], sorry for leading you on, Kenny was right, as he usually is, I thought it was love because I was in a dark place, the entirety of japan was so isolating for me, and I feel if i had listened to the others and stopped it, you would have had a group you enjoyed being around more, and none of this would have even happened.

to [redacted], im sorry. i cherish the callie plush more than ivy wanted me to feel guilt by it, you are the 2nd online friend ive ever met irl before, and i honor you a bunch. sorry for desperately trying to make you comfortable with [redacted] and devalidating your feelings. its on me, nothin more nothing less.

and last but not least, [redacted], Im so sorry man. these words should have been said eons ago, but i was stubborn and hardheaded and even more so unkind and uncaring and reckless and naive. my naivety is what got me away in the first place, sorry for flirting with [redacted] in front of you, sorry for telling you to mind your business, sorry for being a bitch about your angry rage moments behind your back to others, sorry for not honoring your creative writing when it came to my splat oc, and most of all sorry for not being there to discuss persona 3 reload because we both were super excited for that game as well as [redacted].

To the rest of HD and i hope you all atleast listen, i dont say this in hopes of forgiveness, and i dont say this in hopes of reconnecting, that decision is purely on you all, and overall I do apologize to every one of you. Since i became micro mini famous from HD's dub my ego grew and im thankful for my cancellation even if it was for private information that i wish had not been brung up from years ago. I love you all, and i think about you guys fondly everyday.

With love,

In reference to the line about him apologizing to "Goose" for flirting with their s/o behind their back while they were still together, my friend has allowed me to use a screenshot from one of Koharu/DJ's deleted accounts of him confessing to admitting his feelings for them, someone he viewed as a SIBLING, in the middle of them having a mental breakdown.

[redacted] can i just vent or get a second opinion

[redacted] 02/04/2023 12:23 PM

ofc

Im talkin to [redacted] and he's the only one that knows this, i feel awful

> デビッド Today at 2:04 AM

> No man i feel awful
> Woke up in the middle of the night cuz of this
> So like, as of the present moment, i like [redacted], i now know and solidify this because i had a dream about them when i woke up an hour ago. now before you say anything, I'm not gonna make moves on them or anything because i love and respect [redacted] Im more so upset that i developed feelings like that in the first place knowing that 1. [redacted] is in a tough spot mentally and 2. [redacted] isn't feeling too good either and 3. Me saying anything regarding this at any point in time every would quite literally complicate and ruin things and two perfectly great friendships i have. Thats honestly whats biting at me.
> I can accept feelings I have, but this specific feeling I Don't want to accept at all because it feels wrong to even think it or feel it know what i mean?

Goose's s/o

I just feel really fucking bad dude :(

And in reference to the person he led on around the time we kicked him, they started talking after both of them had just gotten out of their own respective relationships/had been liking other people. In this message from the person being led on in question, we also learn that his tendency to kill baby animals hasn’t gone away either. Mind you, he HAS a cat, but he supposedly did this because was having a mental breakdown. I however still think it’s insanely gross to kill an animal in such a way because you were having an episode, as it shows what you’re willing to do to any living thing when you’re on the verge of breaking.

And here’s him trying to justify why he leads people on.

I know one of the screenshots had me say that a part of me felt bad for him, but I don’t. I denounce everything about this person. I never defended them because of what they did, I wanted to defend them for who they are, but now I don't defend them for anything. Before I cut them off I told them if they ever tried to gain a platform that I would bring what they were doing to light, because they were never truly sorry for anything they did. This doc is relatively small, but I wanted to make it to show that this individual has not changed since they were last called out, with horrid actions (that we know of) happening as recently as January of this year. They are not to be trusted, and should seek therapy before they try to come back into the public.

UPDATE: 6/20/2024 12:36 PM CST

We have a testimony from a good friend of mine who would like to remain anonymous. I'll paste it here:
Anon "🐛":

Two years ago, I was too afraid to speak on my experience with DJ because I saw how rudely people treated Cinna for the callout post. Now, Kenny has allowed me to contribute to the document anonymously.

I wasn't treated the kindest by DJ. I will admit, I had gotten attached to him rather quickly after being introduced. Becoming overly attached to others was something I really struggled with as a young, immature teenager, and I was much younger than him.

We never 'officially' dated, though there was mutual interest. A lot of our conversations were inappropriate, and there were several sexually and racially charged remarks aimed at me. I didn't understand the problem with it at the time and played along. I only realized how odd and uncomfortable it was once DJ and I no longer spoke.

DJ unexpectedly pursued a relationship with someone else. I felt insanely led on by this, and as if he only used me for sexual gratification and my racial identity rather than having a genuine interest in me.

DJ mentioned before he wanted to visit Japan. I was nervous about DJ studying abroad because I felt he had an Asian fetish, and didn’t want him to hurt anyone else.

My other friends/former friends might or might not speak out about the way he’s affected them personally, and if they do, I’ll add their threads underneath this one. Until then, I hope this is enough for anyone who’s seen their streams or ever comes across them to steer clear from possibly forming a bond with someone as unstable as DJ.
