

This is Brandon Burkholder and email is bburkho@clemsn.edu. I was thinking that we need to mention our interests on here so we can choose a topic that we will all enjoy. Of course these need to be things that fit into his criteria of "an issue that is normally ignored by our culture." Ideas that would be related to my interests: The end of the space shuttle program, people who bike on the side of the road, the unstable infrastructure of our country (bridges, building, etc.), and using video games for child education. None of these are very well thought out or even that creative but I would like to hear your ideas so we can collaborate and choose something as soon as possible to get this project completed.

I have created the email account which is necessary for the project. It is black_team3@hotmail.com and the password is clemson.

- A Video
- A Social Media site, such as Facebook, YouTube, Twitter, Tumblr, Flickr, or whatever else...
- A Document Design:
- Some form of website, which might be a blog, which you're familiar with already. You can also create free websites at wordpress.com, wix.com, moonfruit.com, yola.com, webs.com, weebly.com, and sites.google.com, as well as other places.
- An e-mail account set up especially for this project.

Dottie:

Okay I am familiar with tumblr and twitter and would be comfortable creating either of those without any difficulty, are there any websites or forms yall have particular comfort with? Video games with children or just technology with children in general would be very interesting and easy to do. Maybe environmental or endangered animals? Let me know what you think!

Brandon:

I like the idea of endangered animals a lot. I am going to go ahead and create our starting point today by creating a website and putting the email address somewhere on it. This is similar to what Mr. Butts did and should be a good starting point for us. Here is the link to the website: teamblackrevolution.moonfruit.com if you like it tell me if you would like me to change anything tell me as well. I will set the hotmail account to autoreply and send the person to either a youtube video that we make since we need to do that or the social networking site we are supposed to make. Input and help would be great.

Brandon: Alright well i am going to go ahead and set up an outline of our scavenger hunt path since it doesn't seem like you guys are paying much attention to this.

- So they start with the website which i have already discussed about the email thing.
- The autoreply will send them to a youtube video where maybe we could discuss how gamecocks are becoming extinct due to tigers killing them all the time. Something school related of the like which is also related to our topic. Somebody making this video would be fantastic.
- From here at the end of the video there will be something saying like check out our other videos and comment/like them or something like normal people do at the end of their video to get more views.
- When they go to the youtube page there will be a link to whatever social networking site we use and on there it will lead us to the document which we create.
- Start working pleeeeeeeaaaaaase i do not want to do this by myself.

Brandon: Alright well just in case anybody is reading this other than Mr. Butts, here is what i have done so far and I am going to continue working today so I will update it as i do it. I have pretty much changed everything from what i said yesterday as I realized the video i made for the website could be used as our video so im just going to go ahead and make a whole new game plan.

- The hunt starts at the facebook page for Balthazar Relasseris which can be found here <http://www.facebook.com/profile.php?id=100002691404357>

- There is a link to a youtube video which is on my youtube account that i made on the wall of that fb account which is here <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ik0rZKGycm4> username: This is my youtube account with all my stuff on it so id rather not give this out password:

- On the information section of this video it says to contact our email at albinosquirrel@bellsouth.net

password: pilkery

- This email will autoreply even though at this moment it won't let me make this setting because it says the account has to exist for a certain amount of time. This autoreply will send the person a word document with a ridiculous number of random sites just to be obnoxious and funny and make this search a little bit interesting. One of these sites will be <http://teamblackrevolution.moonfruit.com/> and this the search will end.

Hi I am very sorry for a lack of response between my last post and now, I was not aware we would be working at such a fast pace because the project isn't due until the 9th. We still have plenty of time to make changes and make the project any better. So Brandon why don't you consider your work done, you have done plenty. You can allow the rest of us to input some.

Bamidele: Dottie, Brandon responded to my mail. He said to let him know whenever we're ready to make any suggestion on what he's done, he'll give the password then. I'll going to work at 3pm, how about btw 9am-noon Saturday. Please do let me know if it's o.k.

Hi Brandon and Dottie. I took a second look at the body of work Brandon has done and all I can say is 'wow!'. I however want to suggest that the sequence of the postings be reversed. The one posted went from a single, endangered aye-aye to several endangered animals. I think it'll have a lasting impact if we go from several endangered animals to a single, unattractive aye-aye.

Hey I really don't understand why my google doc did not show this message until now, maybe keeping it open and simply refreshing the doc does not keep the doc up to date. However I am sorry and I am going to keep looking at what Brandon has done and he gave the passwords so I will look to see what we should change and talk to you before doing so. And yes Brandon did a great job, I am really impressed.

Okay the only things I would change are:

- the wording on the website
- maybe an actual link to a place where money could be donated and very official organizations
- add some more things to the facebook wall- this should be pretty simple. just for looks!

Bamidele, this project is starting to get down to the wire so I'm going to go ahead and make those changes that I discussed above. Please let me know if you have any problems, thank you.

Hi Dottie and Brandon. The mission statement ...”To provide awareness and support for the countless number of helpless, unaided animals whom....” is a bit twisted and a lot of ‘ness and less.’

I'll suggest, To provide awareness and support for several unaided animals facing the likelihood of extinction because of the intrusion of man into their natural habitat

-Brandon: Have all of these changes been made yet? and have we set the autoreply for the email?

-Bamidele. I made the changes to the mission statement. Not sure of the autoreply. We couldn't access the facebook with the password you gave.

-Brandon: Sorry I messed up the login but i put the right stuff I will go set the autoreply now.

Brandon and Bamidele,

I have edited some things on the website and added the about they aye-aye page. Please let me know if its good! Thanks

-Dottie

Brandon: i had to change the email to my old email account because apparently the hotmail one hasnt existed long enough to set an autoreply so it is now albinosquirrel@bellsouth.net and i will change the info for the youtube page so they match

Brandon and Bamidele,

Also I thought that adding a twitter account to the contact page would be a neat way to involve other medias. I went ahead and made the account and I am going to link it to the website. Here are the passwords if you'd like to tweet some things. Hope you like the idea.

Hi Brandon and Dottie: I've reviewed the work one more time and I think we met all of Mr. B's criteria for the project. Thanks Brandon for taking the initiative to lead. Thanks Dottie for tidying things up. I appreciate knowing both of you a little more than I would otherwise.

Does this mean the project is done and turned in? im not sure how we are supposed to turn this in!!!
