

Do Now Question: What Strategies can a writer use to make their main ideas clear and impactful? How do they make the most impact?

Repetition, Tone, Call to Action, Authority, Clear Structure, figurative language, variety of sentence structures, rhetorical questions

They make the most impact by engaging the reader emotionally, reinforcing key points through structure and repetition, and supporting ideas with clear evidence.

Rhetorical Strategies:

- Repetition: Repeating key words to emphasize a central idea.
- Tone: The mood or attitude set by word choice.
- Call to Action: Direct instructions encouraging the audience to act.
- Authority: Language that asserts credibility and power.

Peer Collaboration Questions

1. What rhetorical strategy stands out the most in your partner's analysis?
2. How effectively does their evidence support the central idea?
3. Are there areas where their explanation could be more detailed?

Exit Ticket:

Identify one rhetorical strategy Lincoln used and explain how it supported a central idea of the Emancipation Proclamation.

Lincoln repeats "free" multiple times. His repetition emphasizes the permanence of freedom, reinforcing the central idea that the proclamation guarantees lasting liberation for enslaved individuals.