

What New Teachers Need

Feature Articles

Reader's Guide / Starting New Teachers Off Right

Anthony Rebola

A Letter to New Teachers

Chase Mielke

The biggest challenge of your career will be staving off burnout. Here's how to do that.

Avoiding the Siren Calls

Mark Wise and Beth Pandolpho

Schools need to help new teachers move past bad practices.

Bridging the Gap

Tara Laskowski

A North Carolina partnership program extends the support network for pre-service and new teachers.

Focusing on the Essentials

Mike Schmoker

We're on the brink of a "Golden Age" in education. To get there, teachers must master three indispensable competencies.

Respect from Day One

Robert Jackson

The most important lessons on interacting with students.

The Real Deal on Classroom Management for New Teachers

Craig Simmons

An instructional coach shares what he wishes he knew as a new teacher.

How Principals Can Support New Teachers

Todd Whitaker, Madeline Whitaker Good and Katherine Whitaker

Five powerful ways to help new teachers thrive and enhance school culture.

The Fundamentals of Backward Planning

How to build richer lesson and unit plans.

The Anti-Racist Educator

Tracey A. Benson and Sarah E. Fiarman

Let's help new teachers take a growth approach to recognizing and working to curb any implicit racial bias.

Taking It to the Streets

Peter McDermott, Fran Falk-Ross, Sharon Medow and Elizabeth Smith

Community mapping can give new teachers much-needed insights into their students' lives and cultural assets.

A Tough Assignment

Paul Bruno

New research suggests school leaders need to be more thoughtful about new teacher placements—and the whole nexus of related working conditions.

The Value of Vulnerability

Paul Emerich France

If we want new teachers to become great teachers, we must help them feel safe enough to take risks, make mistakes, and embrace uncertainty.

Columns / Departments

Research Matters / Keep the Romance Alive

Bryan Goodwin

How can we help new teachers maintain a long-term love of their jobs?

Show & Tell: A Video Column / Do You Remember Me?

Douglas Fisher and Nancy Frey

Great teachers—those whom kids remember—invite students into learning. Watch the video.

Leading Together / New Teachers as Catalysts

Jill Harrison Berg

New teacher induction provides a chance to renew school culture.

Confronting Inequity / Learning the Language

Matthew R. Kay

Educators need to hold on to their capacity to be fascinated by students.

One to Grow On / The Autonomous Teacher

Carol Ann Tomlinson

What teachers really need is greater professional discretion.

Readers React

Reader responses to recent issues of EL.

ASCD Community in Action

EL Takeaways / Learning the Ropes

Index to Advertisers

Advisory: Trends and Ideas

Turn & Talk / Carol Dweck on Fixed Mindsets in New Teachers

Sarah McKibben

An interview with the Stanford University psychology professor and influential author on helping new teachers admit their struggles so they can shift into a positive, growth mindset.

Research Alert / Putting Out the Welcome Mat

Anthony Rebora

Findings from the study, "Positive Greetings at the Door: Evaluation of a Low-Cost, High-Yield Proactive Classroom Management Strategy," published in the Journal of Positive Behavior Interventions.

Relevant Read / Where Teachers Thrive: Organizing Schools for Success

Naomi Thiers

This new book from Susan Moore Johnson shares healthy practices for encouraging leadership, providing supports, and scheduling teachers' time, to better support new teachers.

Noteworthy

Tara Laskowski