In the ring, Dieter is a very bare bones simplistic style of wrestler who plays to his strengths that are his size and power. When he hits people, the crowd feels it along with his opponent. Each time he does Lucas will play it up to the camera.

Strengths:

Incredible Power: With a towering stature and impressive size, this wrestler possesses immense physical strength, allowing them to overpower opponents and execute devastating moves with ease.

Resilience: This wrestler possesses a remarkable ability to absorb punishment and keep fighting. They have a high pain tolerance and can withstand significant damage, often rallying back from the brink of defeat.

Weaknesses:

Limited High-Flying Ability: The wrestler's size and power may restrict their ability to execute high-flying manoeuvres or take to the top rope. This limitation can make them predictable in terms of their offensive arsenal, allowing opponents to strategize accordingly.

Stamina Limitations: Despite their impressive power, Wagner may struggle with maintaining a high level of endurance throughout longer matches. Their immense strength requires significant energy expenditure, making them susceptible to possible fatigue as matches progress.

Entrance:

First there is darkness, and then silence which is broken abruptly by a familiar voice...

Voice: Ladies and Gentlemen...

The familiar voice of Lucas Knight breaks out over the P.A System causing all eyes to divert to the stage but all they see is a sea of darkness...

Lucas Knight: Hailing from the Free State of Bavaria, weighing in tonight at two hundred and seventy-five pounds... Ladies and Gentlemen, rise to your feet and bare witness to THE MUNICH MAULER, DIETER WAGNER!!!

The crowd buzzes now when the opening whistling to Engel by Rammstein hits over the P.A System. A light then beams down from the heavens to reveal Lucas Knight standing dead center of the stage with his trademark smirk and three piece suit. He steps forward to reveal the silhouette of the six foot seven German, Dieter Wagner standing behind him.

The arena's lights come back on to show Wagner standing with his arms behind his back, a focused look in his eyes as he surveys the crowd. Lucas turns around as he backs down the ramp and points to Wagner before spinning on his heels again and walking down towards the ring, Wagner now walking slowly behind him, taking everything in around him.

Lucas stops at the bottom of the ramp and grins like a Cheshire cat before walking up the steel steps and sitting on the middle rope waiting for the German. Once Wagner reaches the bottom of the ramp he approaches the ring and rubs his hand across the ring canvas before walking up the steel steps himself and entering the ring via the middle ropes Lucas has separated for him.

The German walks to the middle of the ring and looks out to the crowd once again before looking across the ring at his opponent as he removes his long black coat which he hands to Knight. Lucas nods and exits the ring with a swagger of confidence in Wagner and what he knows he can do in the ring...
