

Moving From “Some Study I Used to Know” to Inquisitive Learning with Genius Hour & Passion Projects

Michele L. Haiken, Ed.D.

for

K12 Online Conference 2014

<http://k12onlineconference.org>

Resources

Genius Hour Youtube Playlist

<http://tiny.url/IgnitingInnovation14>

Here you will find a dozen or more videos regarding Genius Hour and videos that inspire creativity and curiosity. In addition, a number of video projects my students created for their genius hour projects last year are included in the playlist.

Tom Driscoll's Blog Flipped History

<http://www.flipped-history.com/2014/06/20-time-year-in-review.html>

Angela Maier's Blog

<http://www.angelamaiers.com/>

Some Study I Used to Know (Goyte Parody) by College Humor

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=VxkHM4DUDKM>

Picture Books:

The Most Magnificent Idea by Ashley Spires (2014)

What Do You Do With An Idea by Kobi Yamada (2014)

It's Never Too Late by Dallas Clayton (2014)

The North Star by Peter Reynolds (2009)

Technology Used with Video & Genius Hour with Students

Animoto

Flipagram

Screencast-o-matic

QR Codes

Google Forms

Google Classroom

Tagul

People to Follow on Twitter for Genius Resources & Ideas

#geniushour -- Monthly chats the first Thursday of every month 9PM/EST

@JoyKirr

@mrskrebs

@gallit_z

Websites & Blogs

<http://geniushour.wikispaces.com>

Contact Me:

Twitter @teachingfactor

Blog <http://theteachingfactor.com>

Email michele@theteachingfactor.com