

Nigel Pike, a native of North Wales, UK, embarked on his journey in the hospitality industry at 13, swiftly ascending the ranks. After culinary school, he honed his skills with Historic House Hotels group before setting sail with Princess Cruises, building his knowledge of wine service and bartending on various ships. After six years love led him ashore to Oxford, where he transitioned to Brooks Street recruitment and later helmed the international customer service department at Oxford University Press. Drawn by family ties, Nigel and his wife relocated to Canada, where they co-managed their first restaurant, Tangerine. Today, with 25 years of restaurant experience, Nigel owns and operates El Camino, The Cascade Room, and Main Street Brewing in the Main Street area.