

Professional Enduro Cup

Everything you need to know!

THE GAME MODE

The 'Professional Enduro Cup' is a knockout-type endurance-race format using the 'Enduro' gamemode (originally created by TGYoshi/Tiggs).

On a multi-lap track, whenever the first player reaches a checkpoint, a countdown timer for every following player activates. If you don't manage to cross a checkpoint within the given countdown timer, you will get knocked out. Countdown timers will decrease the further the round proceeds. The winner will be the last player to drive.

During the live rounds, an additional widget on the right side of your HUD will display every player's current checkpoint and each checkpoint's remaining countdown.

THE CUP

The PEC is a weekly event, being held every wednesday at 8:00pm GMT+1 (CET/CEST) and lasting for around 60-90 minutes.

The cup starts with a Warm-Up phase of 15 minutes on an unknown multi-lap map in the Time Attack mode. After the Warm-Up phase, the server will be locked with a password and the enduro cup will start with a total of 10 rounds played in the enduro mode.

The PEC staff will announce each week's password beforehand in the Team Professionals discord (link down below). In case you happen to disconnect during the event or want to join after the server has been locked, you can use the password to (re)join the server.

POINTS DISTRIBUTION

After each round has ended, points will be distributed based on the position you got KO'ed:

- 1st: 750 pts.
- 2nd: 720 pts.
- 3rd: 690 pts.
- 4th: 660 pts.
- 5th: 645 pts.
- etc...

SEASONS

The current season of PEC – season 5 – is running without an active season ranking until open end with an infinite amount of editions being hosted per season.

As for the past seasons 2–4, we have been making use of a seasonal ranking, considering your best 8 out of 10 results over the season. Your seasonal ranking got determined by the points you acquired in each edition, using the same distribution as in the live rounds.
