

Resolution on the Prohibition of Fully Autonomous Weapons

The General Assembly,

Noting that Artificial Intelligence (A.I.) has been in development for the past decades and that significant progress has been made in the technology of A.I.,

Observing that various nations are developing Fully Autonomous Weapons such as the United Kingdom's BAE Systems Corax,

Also observing that various nations have already developed and deployed Fully Autonomous Weapons,

Taking into consideration that Fully Autonomous Weapons greatly reduce the death toll for a nation in war and thus greatly improve the conditions of the soldier,

However also recognising that all technology is hackable, and that Fully Autonomous Weapons do have a risk of getting hacked,

Thereby noting that insurgent and hostile forces may hack these Fully Autonomous Weapons and use them for terroristic purposes,

Further taking into consideration that unlike soldiers, A.I. does not have a moral sense of good and bad and might do horrendous things for 'the greater good'.

Also taking into consideration that having an easy resource for war will drastically reduce the threshold for it, since having a robot that could easily calculate what wars would be easy to win

Noting that this will hurt the civilian population by a great amount and will lead to the rise of dictators, with the dictator with the best A.I. being the leader

Also taking into consideration that we do not fully understand A.I. yet and that it may decide some way that humanity's existence should not continue

Also taking into consideration that various experts such as Stephen Hawking and the Human Rights Watch have voiced their concern about Fully Autonomous Weapons

1. Decides that Fully Autonomous Weapons are a threat to the safety of the world and her future

2. Decides that a convention must be set up to stop the development, production, stockpiling of Fully Autonomous Weapons and destroy any existing Fully Autonomous Weapons
