The abstract should only be typed in one paragraph and one-column format.

Keywords: three, until, five, keywords

INTRODUCTION

The introduction must contain (in order) general background, the study of the previous literature (state of the art) as the basis for the statement of scientific novelty of the article, the statement of scientific novelty, and the research problem or hypothesis. At the end of the introduction, the purpose of the study of the article must be written. In the format of a scientific article, there is no literature review as in the research report, but it is manifested in the form of a previous literature review (state of the art) to show the scientific novelty of the article.

Write down the findings obtained from the research results that have been carried out and must be supported by adequate data. The research results and findings must be able to answer the questions or research hypotheses in the introduction.

CONCLUSION

The conclusion contains conclusions and suggestions. The conclusion describes the answer of the hypothesis and/or the purpose of the research or the findings obtained. The conclusion does not contain a repetition of the results and discussion, but rather a summary of the results of the findings as expected in the objective or hypothesis. The suggestion presents the things to be done related to the next idea of the research.

RESEARCH METHODS

The methods used in problem solving include analysis methods. The methods used in solving the research are written in this section.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

The results and discussions contain the results of the research and its discussion.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

All references referred to in the text of the article must be written in the Bibliography section. The Bibliography must contain reference libraries derived from primary sources (scientific journals and accounting for at least 80% of the total bibliography) published in the last 10 (ten) years. While 20% can contain research articles or research reports (theses, theses, books, and other relevant publications).
