

Chris Curtis @chriscurtis94 · 1h

This is not true.

(((Dan Hodges))) @DPJHodges · 7h

This is a very good idea. Calling on the police to investigate Nigel Farage going to the pub will have a very beneficial impact and will not in any way create a backlash in his favour. Seriously. Is liberal Britain ever going to learn.

5

6

21

Chris Curtis @chriscurtis94 · 1h

Things Brits don't like:

- Trump
- People breaking lockdown rules
- People in politics thinking the rules don't apply to them.

Things Brits do like:

- The quarantine rule

3

9

46

Chris Curtis @chriscurtis94 · 1h

Brits also aren't too keen on the pubs re-opening...but whatever.

1

3

14

Earlier in the day Farage published a pic of himself on Twitter drinking a pint. This led to claims on Twitter that he shouldn't have been in the pub at all. He should still be in quarantine following his trip to the US to be part of Trump Tulsa rally.

This led acting LD leader, Ed Davey, to call on Kent police to investigate what is a breach of the lockdown rules.

The Curtis response above looks correct to me. All the polling, as we saw after the Cummings road trip, is that the public takes a very negative view of those who think they can disobey the rules.

Mike Smithson

via politicalbetting.com

<https://www7.politicalbetting.com/index.php/archives/2020/07/04/yougovs-chris-curtis-has-this-right-on-farage/> <https://diachibet.com/fb88>

<https://diachibet.com/fun88> #diachibet, #nhacai, #diachinhacaibet, #nhacaiuytin, #fb88, #fun88, #diachibetcom, #DiaChiBet.Com, #nhà cái, #nhà cái uy tín, #địa chỉ bet